State charter presented to Romulus Chamber

secretary. In his speech to Barrett told Chamber officials and members to get involved in all issues — even controversial ones — if they were to make their presence felt and be a "moving force" in the community.

Meet is optimistic on drain odor

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus elected officials and residents are highly optimistic after meeting with state and county health department representatives Friday to probe the cause and cure of the unbearable stench coming from the Trouten Drain.

Included in the approximately 60 persons attending the meeting at Thomas Coleman Center, 35351 Beverly Road, were Thomas Leep and Pete Ollila of the Dept. of Natural Resources; Dale Burgess, a district engineer representing the Wayne County Board of Health.

"We're very happy and satisfied with the response from the citizens, residents and property owners of the affected area," said State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus), who organized and chaired the study session.

"Also, the response on the part DNR, and state and county health departments in sending representatives is a very encouraging sign. I think we'll see some positive results in the near future."

On hand from Romulus were Councilman Jimmie C. Raspberry, whose involvement helped Mahalak set up the meeting with health officials; Mayor William M. Oakley; David Paul, director of Department of Public Works, and about 50 local residents.

Two representatives of Chemical Recovery Systems, 36345 Van Born Road, Romulus, including one attorney, also attended. Although no one wants to publicly point a finger at Chemical Recovery Systems as the cause of the pollution in the drain, many feel the plant is to blame.

The drain flows near Chemical Recovery Systems plant south of Van Born in the northwest area of Romulus. It runs in a southerly direction, parallel to Wayne Road and meanders through the city.

Romulus residents have been complaining for years about the terrible odor coming from the drain and have insisted that elected officials do something about it. Friday's meeting was an outgrowth of their complaints.

"The drain is polluted terrible," said Raspberry, who has received innumerable complaints from residents over the years. "It is very obnoxious in odor and color. The basic thing is that the DNR claims they must get samples and study them."

Raspberry said that a DNR study in 1976 found the drain was being polluted by Chemical Recovery Systems, which, he said, was ordered by DNR to install a catch basin and a pump to keep pollutants from entering the drain.

"Perhaps we should say the DNR determined that the pollution came from the property where Chemical Recovery Systems is located," Raspberry corrected himself, striving to voice the exact terminology used by the DNR.

Raspberry, a 20-year elected official in Romulus and old Romulus Township, was encouraged by Friday's results. "The people themselves have spoken as to what the conditions are and the state was there to hear."

"The people's health and safety are the most important thing. It was beneficial in that the state and county officials came to the community to hear the citizens' complaints and see first hand what the conditions are."

After hearing complaints from the residents, the representatives of the state and county health departments, along with several elected officials, inspected three sites on the Trouten Drain.

They took samples and said they would report their findings as soon as possible.

"Suburbia" rears head

Huron probes way to leave Wayne County

Huron Township is so provoked over having its needs ignored by Wayne County that it is researching the possibility of seceding from that parent governmental body.

And at least three other area communities — Flat Rock, Rockwood, and Brownstown Township — have registered strong discontent with Wayne County services.

Huron Supervisor John Puskar's motion at last week's board meeting received strong support to investigate the legal ramifications of seceding from Wayne County.

"There is growing concern over the control Detroit has over the rest of Wayne County," Puskar said yesterday. "I'm concerned over the Public Works Board of the county being controlled by Detroit-oriented County Commissioners when it comes to planning and implementing Super Sewer."

"Western Wayne County has the greatest number of people and the least amount of influence, it seems,"

More residents involved

Michigan Week called success

The second annual 8-day celebration of Michigan Week in Romulus is history and many residents are calling it one of the most meaningful events in the city's history.

More residents volunteered and more events were staged by far than last year's successful inaugural 8-day series of activities, according to Jay Young, Romulus public information officer.

Among the most impressed was Mayor Vickers C. Hansen of Manistee, who exchanged places with Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley on Government Day, May 22. Hansen and his visiting party of officials from the city by Lake Michigan thoroughly enjoyed their 24-hour stay in Romulus.

Meanwhile, Oakley and his wife, Mary, were joined by Councilmen Junior Block, Ray Cantrell and Jimmie Raspberry and their wives and City Treasurer Helen Gallien.

Oakley and his party enjoyed dinner Sunday evening, May 21 at Carriage Inn in Manistee. Mayor Pro-tem Wayne Linke and other councilmen and their wives officially welcomed their visitors and gave a slide presentation on the history of Manistee.

On Monday, May 22, Oakley received a key to the city before his entourage was taken on a tour of the Manistee area, including industries and tourist attractions such as Lake Michigan beaches, Golf and Country Club, Ramsdell Opera House, Manistee Marina, St. Mary's of Mt. Carmel Shrine, the Congregational Church, Centure Terrace Apts., Saber Stadium, Manistee Blacker Airport, the armory, city garage and Industrial Park.

In the afternoon, the group was offered the opportunity to take a fishing trip on a luxurious boat on Lake Michigan or golf at Manistee Golf and Country Club. The ladies visited a home to see a large collection of antique musical organs and later toured Glen of Michigan, a famed women's garment plant.

On Monday evening, the Romulus contingent were guests at a banquet dinner hosted by City Engineer Tom Stege, who acted as toastmaster. Councilmen and department heads and their wives were official hosts of the evening.

A breakfast at Carriage Inn was the scene of a fond farewell and the local entourage headed back for Romulus. However, Mayor Hansen's group contacted Oakley's party by phone and met them at Midland for a mid-day lunch to review what each had learned from visiting the other city.

"Although our two cities differ considerably in size, setting and population, there were still many things to be learned from our exchanged visit," Oakley said upon his return.

"Speaking for the entire Romulus delegation, I can truly say that Manistee officials were gracious hosts and have a right to be truly proud of their beautiful city by the lake."

Councilman Block said he was fascinated by the salt mines located in the Manistee area. "Did you know they once had 20 millionaires living there, or one for every thousand people," he asked. All members of the Romulus party were pleased with their trip to Manistee, located on the eastern shores of Lake Michigan in the northwestern part of Michigan.

Michigan Week in Romulus opened this year with Youth Day on Saturday, May 20, with all kinds of rides and excitement for the younger age residents. Sunday was Heritage Day featured the dedicating of the Pearl Morris home on Huron River Drive as an historical site. A city picnic was held at Elmer Johnson Park in the afternoon.

May 23 was titled World Trade Day and offered a behind-the-scenes look at a busy international airport with two public tours. Some 35 persons took the morning trip and 70 visited the famed Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport in the afternoon.

May 24 was Livelihood Day, sponsored by the Romulus Chamber of Commerce which received its state charter before 120 persons at a noon banquet.

Last Thursday was Education Day and students from Romulus High School took the places of all 10 elected officials of the city — mayor, clerk, treasurer and seven council members — in addition to filling the positions of department heads. They even carried on a council meeting with an agenda of their own. All schools held open houses and presented special education day programs.

Friday was Hospitality Day, sponsored by We The People, with a large variety of booths and exhibits at Kennedy Park. Saturday closed out the week with the senior citizens hosting Community Pride Day.

BHS athletic head dead at 48

The Community of Belleville and surrounding school districts were still in a state of shock over the unexpected death last week of Harry Hidenfelter, well-known Belleville High School athletic director.

Hidenfelter, who would have been 49 in September, was attending the Wayne County Educational Secretarial Association's annual dinner-dance May 23 at Fairlane Manor in Dearborn when he collapsed on the dance floor about 11 p.m.

He was rushed to Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

A large number of friends and loved ones attended Hidenfelter's funeral Saturday afternoon at First United Methodist Church in Belleville. Services were conducted by The Rev. Joy Arthur with interment at Hillside Cemetery.

Hidenfelter's death was a shock to everyone, but no one outside the family felt the loss more than Doug Brown, director of instruction for Van Buren School District.

Brown, who worked side-by-side with Hidenfelter for 20 years, said the entire community will feel the loss.

"I've known and worked with

HARRY HIDENFELTER

Harry Hidenfelter for 20 years and over those years we shared a great deal of respect for one another," Brown said.

"I know of no individual who was willing to provide more assistance, more dedication, more cooperation and time and effort to make this a better school system than Harry."

Brown, who was probably as close to Hidenfelter as anyone, added: "I personally have lost a close friend but the community has lost a great citizen and a tremendous person."

"Perhaps more importantly, the young people of this school district have lost a real good friend. He watched over them and had a great deal of good influence on many, many of them," Brown said.

Hidenfelter joined the Belleville High staff in 1951 after earning a degree from Albion College. He later received his Master of Arts, majoring in physical education and administration, from University of Michigan in 1955.

He was the head track and football coach from 1955 until 1963 and his teams won numerous conference titles. One of his football players, Frank Nunley, went on to earn All-American recognition at University of Michigan and later starred for the San Francisco 49ers.

Hidenfelter is survived by his wife, Donna; a son, William, who is an attorney in Belleville; his mother, Mrs. Florence Hidenfelter of Healdsburg, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Penny School of Healdsburg, Calif.; and Mrs. Annabelle Alba of Los Angeles; a brother, James, of Coldwater, Mich.; and three grandchildren.

Donations may be made to the Harry Hidenfelter Memorial Fund at Belleville High School. Although no definite project has been determined, the family and school officials said the money would be used for what Hidenfelter always dreamed of — improvement of existing facilities or perhaps some tennis courts for school and community use.

Contestants sought for Strawberry Festival pageant

The call has gone out for any single Belleville or Van Buren Township woman between the ages of 17 and 24, interested in vying for the first annual Strawberry Festival Queen Beauty Pageant.

The pageant this year will be held on June 16 at St. Anthony's Church, 409 W. Columbia St., Belleville, to select the young woman to reign over the second annual strawberry festival. The pageant will be at 7 p.m.

Contestants will be judged on their poise, personality and general appearance. A pre-judging will determine those women eligible for the pageant, and those selected as finalists will be notified by mail or telephone as to the details, organizers said.

Applications for the pageant may be obtained at the offices of The Belleville Enterprise Newspaper, 116 Fourth St. They should include a resume of the contestant's education, hobbies and future plans, as well as a recent photograph, which will be returned.

Applications must be returned by no later than 5 p.m. June 9 to the Enterprise Office. A pageant application follows.

Seniors may get higher tax credits

Legislation to increase property tax credits for senior citizens and handicapped persons has been reported to the full Senate by the Senate Finance Committee.

Enactment of the legislation would have the effect of reducing taxes for eligible persons.

"Passage of this bill is absolutely necessary if we are to give our seniors and handicapped the type of tax relief they need to maintain a comfortable and secure standard of living," said State Sen. Jack Faxon, president pro tempore of the Senate and the bill's sponsor. "The trend toward progressively higher property taxes is severely limiting the ability of seniors and handicapped persons to pay for essential goods and services, making tax relief essential."

Faxon's bill dovetails with another bill approved by the Finance Committee to exempt seniors with household incomes of $10,000 or less from property taxes.

Under Faxon's proposal, eligible persons with incomes of less than $10,000 could claim credit for up to $1,200 of property taxes paid. For eligible persons paying rent, the credit would be based on 17 percent of rental payments.

Faxon's bill also provides increased property tax credit — or credit based on rent — for seniors and handicapped persons with incomes between $10,000 and $13,000.

"Passage of this legislation will help make the state's tax system more equitable by reducing the burden placed on those least able to pay," Faxon said. "Because generally the earning ability of seniors and the handicapped is limited, government has the major responsibility of making sure that tax laws enable them to maintain a standard of living which allows them to live with dignity."

A.M. movie returns

The Detroit metropolitan area will once again have an early daytime movie as Channel 56 presents the "Mid-Morning Movie" starting June 5 at 11 a.m. It's part of the major change in daytime programming on Detroit's public television station.

Beginning that morning, Channel 56 will show classic movies, from the past and present every weekday. A galaxy of stars will be featured including Spencer Tracy, John Wayne, Loretta Young, Joan Bennett and Will Rogers.

The first week's offerings of film classics will include "Call Her Savage" with Clara Bow, "Zoo in Budapest" with Gene Raymond and "We're Going To Be Rich" with Gracie Fields and Victor McLaglen.

Immediately following the "Mid-Morning Movie" at 12:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays will be the programs that Channel 56 viewers have been used to seeing at 2:30 p.m. "Turnabout," "Book Beat," "The French Chef with Julia Child," "Crockett's Victory Garden" and "Daniel Foster, M.D." have all been moved to the new, earlier time. EARLIER TIME.

The new daytime lineup also will feature a repeat showing of the PBS-BBC classic "The Forsyte Saga," Mondays at 1 p.m., and other dramatic repeats in that time slot on other weekdays.

Two children's programs new to public TV in Detroit also join the Channel 56 lineup June 5. They are "Discovery," which explores worldwide occupations and interests, at 4:30 p.m. and "Vision On," which provides action and excitement for hearing impaired children, at 9:30 a.m.

Risks are plenty when purchasing commodity options

By ATT. GEN. FRANK J. KELLEY

(This is one of a series of public service articles explaining, in general terms, a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)

Investing to increase one's wealth is a respected business maneuver. Dealing in commodity options is a specialized form of investment. It is a high-risk investment on items such as cocoa, coffee, sugar, rubber, lead and gold. Investors are gambling that the price of the commodity underlying their option will move in a favorable direction within a specific time.

When you buy an option, you are granted the right to purchase (a call) or sell (a put) a standard quantity of a certain commodity at a given price within a specified period of time. The cost of your option is the premium and this entire amount is at risk.

If the price of the commodity option call you bought rises within the time period you purchased it for, you can sell and will make a profit, if the price increase of the commodity exceeds your premium. But, if the price doesn't go up far enough, you can lose a portion of your investment when the option expires. If the price of the commodity either stays the same or goes down, your entire investment is lost forever.

Fraud in the selling of commodity options has become a major source of investment losses both in Michigan and around the country. People should realize that speculating in commodity options is not suitable for a great majority of investors. Even if you feel you have the expertise, the background and the money to risk to make this kind of investment, these five guidelines should be followed before deciding to invest in any type of commodity option:

(1) Do not take any action as the result of an unsolicited telephone call. The best thing to do with such a call is hang up.

(2) Have a complete understanding of the operation of the commodity options market before investing.

(3) Have a complete understanding of the specific commodity such as sugar, coffee, cocoa, gold, etc., being offered before investing. Find out the commodity's current selling price, its potential for going up or down.

(4) If you decide purchasing an option is a suitable investment, shop around. Get the best price you can from a reputable broker.

(5) Realize that you should only invest what you can afford to lose. Commodity options are among the riskiest and most speculative of all investments.

Trading in commodity options has been outlawed in this country since 1936. However, options companies get around this by trading international commodities on the London market which still is allowed.

Commodity options companies are regulated by the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC). Both brokers and companies are required to be registered by the commission. If you want more information about futures trading, contact the CFTC by calling its toll free number, 800-424-9838, or by writing them at Commodity Futures Trading Commission, 2033 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

If you think you have been the victim of any commodity investment fraud, contact both the CFTC and the Michigan Department of Commerce, Corporation and Securities Bureau.

Protect yourself and your hard-earned money. If you are considering investing on the commodity options market, get answers.

Help Center celebrates 5th year of service

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

More than 100 persons turned out last week to see the Romulus Chamber of Commerce receive its charter from the state at Ramada Inn.

The noon Civic Charter luncheon drew not only Romulus business people but those from chambers from Wayne and Belleville as well. Romulus Chamber President, C.J. "Doc" Carpenter introduced the Romulus Chamber officials and received two presentations.

The first was a resolution from the House of Representatives presented by State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus). It honored the Chamber and said in part: "It is a pleasure to take special note of the reorganization and reestablishment of the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce."

"The rekindling of civic pride and citizen unity that has prompted this banding together of concerned leaders of the community is an example worthy of emulation and the people who comprise the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce are indeed worthy of commendation..."

It was adopted by the House of Representatives on May 17.

"I hope our chamber will get Romulus moving along in the right direction," Mahalak said in opening remarks. "I attended the Business and Professional Women's banquet earlier this year, so this is the second milestone for me."

He told of his membership with the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and how they got involved in issues important to the community.

"I hope Romulus' Chamber of Commerce gets involved, too."

Then Carpenter introduced Jim Barrett, president of the State Chamber of Commerce. "My first pleasure today is to present this charter to you today," Barrett said.

Barrett then brought a short speech, stressing the need for Chamber of Commerce members to get involved with all issues of the day.

"We see the government making more and more decisions affecting local industry and commerce," he began. "The government takes nearly 40 percent of our income in taxes."

Barrett then quoted Will Rogers who quipped: "Maybe we're lucky we don't get all the government we pay for."

"When a bill is passed that you do not like, ask yourself what you did to elect those who voted on the bill. Some use the excuse they don't have time to get involved. You better get involved," Barrett warned.

"There was a recent Workmen's Compensation bill proposed that would have increased costs 69 percent. Don't leave your personal, Chamber, and political activities to somebody else."

Barrett pointed out that there were 280 local Chambers of Commerce in Michigan with 5,000 members and a national chamber with some 70,000 members.

"Some Chambers are 'moving forces' in their local community, while others have no influence," the State Chamber president pointed out.

He told his audience that the Romulus Chamber of Commerce should provide leadership in three ways.

"First, it should have officials who are leadership people, then they should analyze and research the issues—even controversial issues—and business people should provide time and money for the Chamber."

Barrett told the Chamber audience that those who espouse other beliefs support their positions with time and money and the Chambers were going to have to start doing likewise.

In urging Chamber members to move ahead, Barrett said in closing, "Don't wait for every business to join. Provide leadership and the business people will join you."

After Barrett's speech, Ransom P. Hall, an official of Kelsey-Hayes Corp., presented him with a certificate for four automobile snow tires.

Representing the City of Romulus at the banquet were Mayor William M. Oakley and Councilman Fred Junior Block.

County sets closing date for long-term care facility

Wayne County's Walter P. Reuther Long-Term Care Facility in Westland will close its doors June 30 unless the state has a "change of heart" and provides permanent funding of the complex, which currently runs an annual $3.5 million deficit.

That's the word from Jarrette Simmons, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

A prominent gerontologist has been appointed to help direct the transfer of patients to other qualified facilities, beginning on June 12 at the earliest.

Simmons said it "is tragic that inflation and skyrocketing criminal-justice costs have forced the county into a position where it must shut down costly non-mandated services or face bankruptcy."

The Board of County Auditors has warned the commissioners that the county faces an $8-12 million deficit for the second year in a row.

Simmons said a "phase out plan," including the orderly transfer of some 180 patients presently being cared for at the facility, has been accepted by U.S. District Judge Ralph M. Freeman.

Freeman May 18 ruled that the county had the right to close the facility and had met previous court-ordered guidelines for a "well-ordered transfer of patients." A November 1977, lawsuit, filed on behalf of patients, had sought to keep the facility open on a permanent basis.

The federal judge also appointed a nationally-respected gerontologist, Leon A. Pastalan, to help insure a safe transfer to private, highly-skilled nursing facilities.

Pastalan is director of research for the Institute of Gerontology at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. He, and some of his associates at the university were successful in directing the transfer of 400 elderly patients from nursing homes in Pennsylvania to new homes.

Freeman said Pastalan would act as "overseeing gerontologist," whose duties would include training the staff involved in the transfer process, directing physical and psychological exams for all patients before they are moved, and overseeing the actual transfer of patients, including visits to the new nursing homes prior to actual departure (if the patients are physically able to do so).

Simmons said the county began sending written notices of the proposed closing to all patients and their families, guardians or closest friends on May 22.

"Each patient and his next of kin will be advised of the assistance available from the Department of Social Services and the county's social workers employed at the Reuther facility," Simmons added. "These professionally-trained and dedicated workers will help the families choose a new facility," Simmons added. "The State Department of Public Health will evaluate each patient to determine the level of care and the program needs required."

"Then the entire team of professionals will try to match each patient with an appropriate new home," she said.

In related action, the Board of Commissioners approved a supplemental appropriation of $386,000 for continued operation of the facility through July 2.

The county has received a special one-time-only state grant of $1.75 million to pay the phase-out costs.

Horsemen issue challenge to back handicapped riding

The Romulus Horseman's Association has issued a friendly challenge to area businesses, individuals and civic organizations to match or surpass their $100 donation to the Wayne County 4-H Handicapped Riding Program.

"We feel that this program offers the handicapped an excellent means of physical therapy, improving balance, posture and co-ordination. England recognized the value of therapeutic riding 20 years ago when it founded the Pony Riding for the Disabled Trusts," reported Charlotte McBride, director. "It also fits in beautifully with the Romulus Horseman's philosophy that one of the healthiest occupations a child can have is horse ownership."

"For disabled children, this program may be their only opportunity to come into contact with horses. We also feel honored that the entire Wayne County Operation is based here in Romulus, at the Circle R Ranch on Inkster Road. We would like to see local clubs or businesses get involved."

Donations may be directed to Wayne County 4-H Handicapped Riding Program Committee President Frederic Krueger, 6760 Allen road, Allen Park, MI., or call 383-1200 for more information.

Our new flag

Gordonier School didn't have an American flag at all until recently, when the Romulus VFW Post 9568 donated the stars and stripes to be flown at the Romulus school. The second grade class of Carol Wolfgang received the flag on behalf of the school, after studying American history all semester. The students agreed to display Old Glory for ANP photographer Tom Greenwood.

Gordonier flies the flag

The second grade class of Gordonier Elementary School will be able to fly the American flag at their Romulus school, thanks to the generosity of the Romulus VFW Post 9568.

The veterans' group presented the class, and their teacher Carol Wolfgang, with a flag at a special presentation recently, topping off the theme of "Take Pride in Our Country" that the class has undertaken this semester.

Commander James Darnell of the VFW Post visited the school with the new flag.

The children have been studying American history and the country's various flags for several months. They worked on decorating the school with patriotic emblems. The showcase has honored President Abraham Lincoln and "Uncle Sam."

The bulletin board depicts an American flag, the Statue of Liberty and eagles with the message, "Take Pride in Our Country."

The study of individual states led to an enjoyable program for parents and fellows students in our 50th state, Hawaii.

A sampling

Michigan Week in Romulus got off with a bang May 20, when the city celebrated Youth Day. There were more activities for youngsters than most residents could keep up with. But here are three random shots that give a sample of what went on. Photo (below at left) shows the start of the 20-mile bike marathon as the bicyclists and joggers take off with a rush. Wayne-Romulus Civil Air Patrol Drill Team (below right) marched in precision formation in the Romulus City Hall parking lot. One visiting dignitary from Manistee said they marched better than soldiers he had seen in the Army. The pie-eating contest is always a belly full of laughs as well as a belly full of pie. Here the youngsters try to cram down the last few bites while their friends laugh by their side. Top photo shows the bikers lined up in preparation for the start of the 20-mile bicycle marathon.

GM heads calls for renewed energy efforts

A renewed call for a national energy policy, a review of GM efforts relating to automotive emissions and improved fuel economy and predictions of record capital spending in the near future highlighted recent remarks by George W. Griffith, general manager of the General Motors Hydra-matic Division in Ypsilanti.

Griffith, chairman of the GM's Plant City Committee - Ypsilanti, addressed a luncheon group of some 200 at the Bowen Field House at Eastern Michigan University. Included at the meeting were displays of General Motors products, past, present and future, and powerplant and energy conservation devices.

GM's latest electric car, the Electrovette, generated a great deal of interest among those attending.

Griffith outlined General Motors corporate initiatives, plans and areas of concern. He was assisted by two presentations on emission control, fuel economy improvements, redesign for weight reduction, and future energy sources and powerplants by Gregory F. Gruska of the GM Environmental Activities Staff and Dr. Richard W. Rothery, assistant department head of transportation and urban analysis for the GM Research Laboratories.

The Hydra-matic executive said General Motors is community-minded and an integral part of the area. The four GM facilities in the area, namely General Motors Assembly Division Willow Run, Hydra-matic Division, GM Parts Division in Van Buren Township and GM Air Transport at Willow Run Airport, employ nearly 16,000 persons with a 1977 payroll of $300 million.

GM's Ypsilanti area facilities purchased more than $139 million worth of goods and services from area suppliers last year.

In addition, Griffith said planned expansion and modernization programs will add 600,000 square feet of floor space and most importantly some 4,000 new jobs to local plant facilities provided the current level of business continues.

Griffith said GM is working hard to protect the strong desire Americans have for personal mobility.

He described GM's success in living up to its commitment "to take the automobile out of the air pollution problem" by saying "one uncontrolled car emitted as many hydrocarbons into the atmosphere back in the '60s as 10 new cars do today."

He and Gruska stressed this ratio

He described GM's success in living up to its commitment "to take the automobile out of the air pollution problem" by saying "one uncontrolled car emitted as many hydrocarbons into the atmosphere back in the '60s as 10 new cars do today."

He and Gruska stressed this ratio will become even greater in the coming years with the use of GM's next generation of catalytic converters. This advanced, sophisticated, Phase II catalyst is being installed on several thousand California cars this model year.

In addition to "burning" hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide, the Phase II catalyst reduces nitrogen oxide compounds into non-toxic nitrogen and oxygen.

"Whatever else you may remember about what we say today about emissions, remember this: With our progress so far and what is in sight the next several years, the war against automotive related air pollution will be all but won. Finishing the cleanup will then largely depend on how quickly consumers replace their older cars with newer, cleaner-running models," Griffith said.

Ongoing projects to reduce emissions, improve fuel economy, integrate lighter weight components into design programs and develop new power sources to most efficiently utilize available resources are the most costly the industry has ever undertaken.

GM efforts began in 1975 and improvements to date are the result of a $15 billion world-wide spending program.

Griffith told the audience it costs General Motors roughly $1 billion to achieve a half-mile per gallon increase in average fuel economy.

"It's easy to see, then, why we're projecting that our total capital spending could reach $5 billion annually in the '80s. That would be more than double our spending in 1975 or 1976, and well above the $3.6 billion we laid on the line in 1977."

For 1978 GM estimates a fleet average fuel economy of 19 miles per gallon, nearly a 60 percent increase over the 12 miles per gallon average in 1974. Mileage requirements mandate a fleet average fuel economy of 27.5 miles per gallon by 1985.

Gruska said: "We're making an all-out effort to meet the government fuel economy standards while still offering cars and trucks that are attractive and utilitarian and which will meet our customers' transportation needs at a cost they can afford."

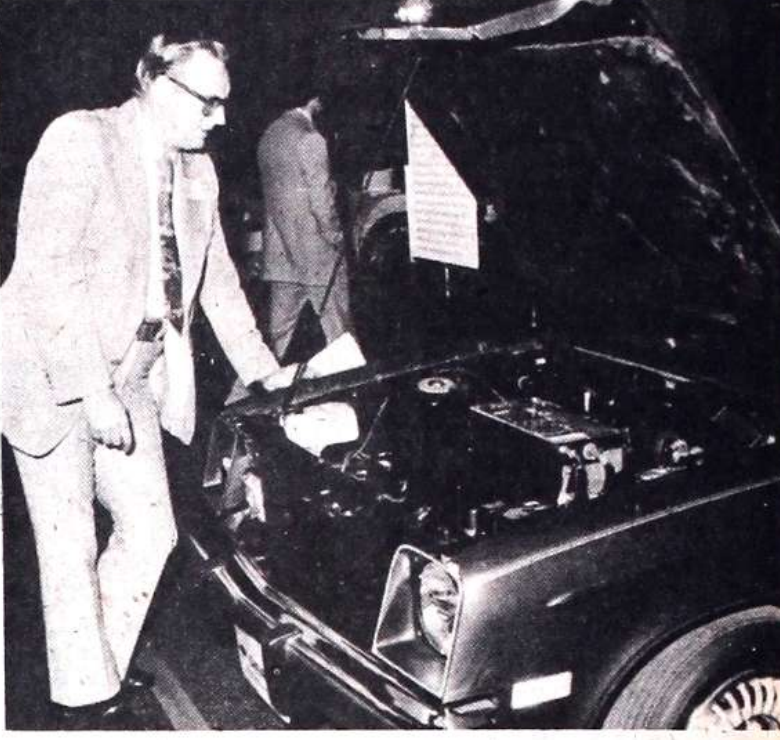

GM's redesign program is now in its second phase, emphasizing lighter vehicles for improved fuel efficiency. The full-size and mid-size models for 1977 and 1978 average 600 to 700 pounds lighter than their predecessors. Nineteen new engines, including a passenger car diesel and turbocharged V-6 powerplants, have been introduced for these cars.

A major portion of the fuel economy improvement program deals with the use of computers to integrate new aluminum and plastic components into the car and the use of advanced electronics with relation to powerplant efficiency and operation.

Griffith placed a great deal of emphasis on "this country's serious, and still growing, shortage of domestically produced energy." The cost of foreign oil last year came to $45 billion, a 15 fold increase over 1970.

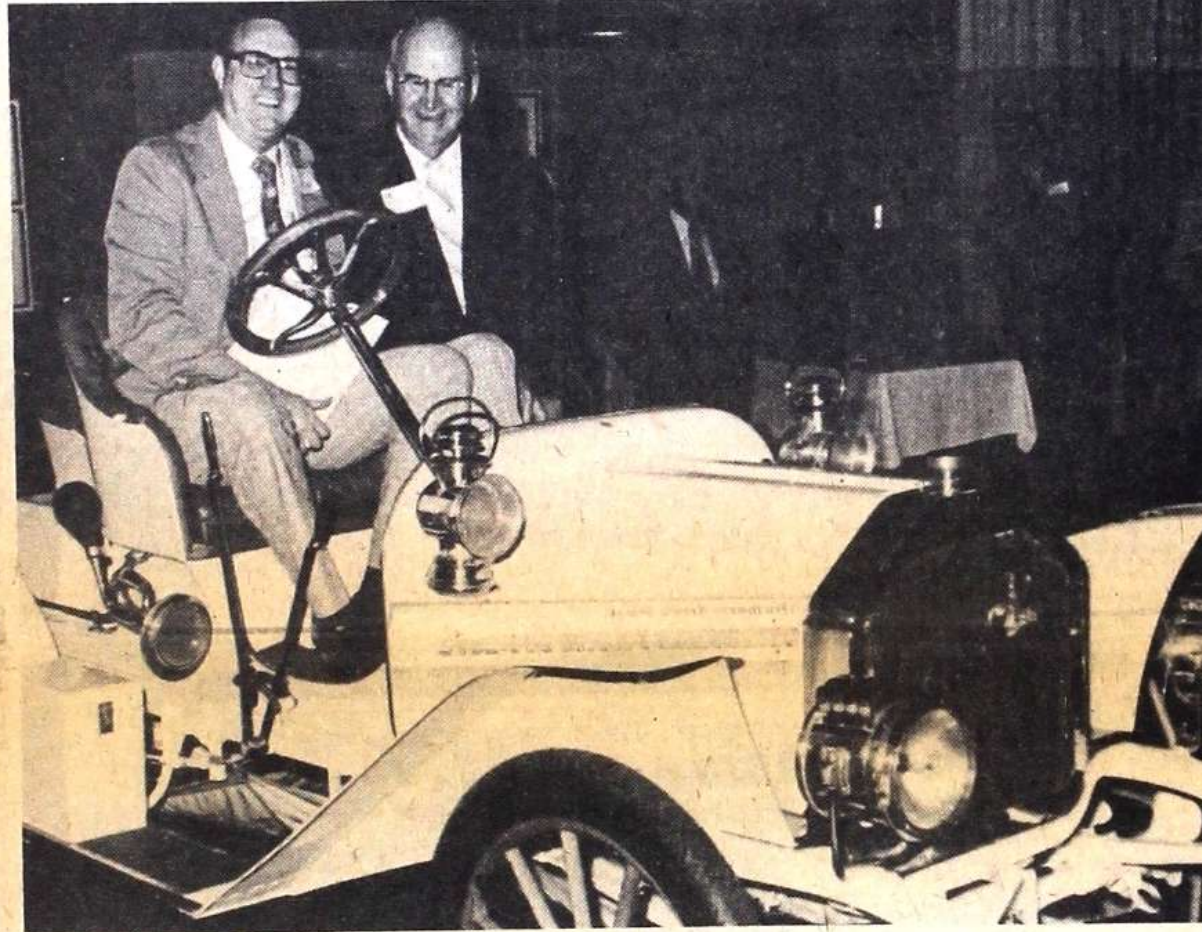

"Conservation is important, but it can't be the whole answer," he said. "The real and lasting answer to our domestic shortage of energy is to use the resources and technology that are fortunately available to us... use each of them with all the skill and care that this nation possesses."

"Just as GM was working to improve fuel economy well before the oil embargo, we also were calling for the establishment of a sound, rational, coordinated national energy policy before then. Domestic energy production has been on the down side of the curve for a number of years. Unfortunately, existing government policies and legislation almost seem to be designed to keep it there. This would be a tragedy. At GM we believe that an energy policy should be based on both conservation and the determined development of new resources for future energy needs."

Car of the future

This first in a new series of test cars - the Electrovette - was the highlight of General Motors' recent exhibit at Eastern Michigan University's Bowen Field House. Jim Bradley, Associated Newspapers reporter, joined some 200 other media people, business leaders and elected officials in examining the battery-powered experimental vehicle. The Electrovette, although operational, remains purely experimental and has no sale price. Twenty 12-volt batteries power the car. They weigh 920 pounds and are carried in the rear seat area. A big breakthrough in battery development is needed GM officials say before they will be able to put it into production.

'Oldster'

At the recent General Motors' exhibition and luncheon at Bowen Field House at Eastern Michigan University, this 1908 Buick 10 auto drew a lot of attention. Associated Newspapers reporter Jim Bradley (left) and Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson just had to "see how it feels" to sit in the fancy topless cruiser. The car cost $850, one-fourth the list price of the 1978 4-door Chevette, but took 4,450 hours of work to buy one compared to 619 hours of work to buy the Chevette. This 1908 Buick had a rumble seat, called "the mother-in-law seat", and came with a full repair kit as standard equipment. There were several new engines and autos on exhibit, including the Electrovette, GM's experimental urban battery-powered modified Chevrolet Chevette.

College Week has assertiveness class

Some people are assertive, others would like to be, and others are learning how to become more assertive. A class in assertiveness training will be offered during College Week June 19-22 on the Michigan State University campus.

According to the instructor, Judy Ellickson of the MSU Counseling Center, assertive behavior is a direct, honest and appropriate expression of one's feelings, opinions and beliefs.

The course is designed to help participants develop an assertive system that has informational, emotional and behavioral aspects. By the end of the course, participants will be able to define what assertive behavior is, distinguish assertive behavior from either aggressive or nonassertive behavior, and have several opportunities to practice developing skills in becoming assertive.

The class is one of 50 to be offered during the four days. College Week is sponsored by the Family Living Education program of MSU's Cooperative Extension Service. For more information call the Family Living Education Department of Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service at 721-6565.

SUFFERING NEEDLESSLY?

Millions are turning to chiropractic because they are recognizing the scientific principles of nature that have made spinal adjustments effective for many conditions where other methods have failed.

The chart below shows the lateral view of the spinal column and indicates in section "A" names of the spinal nerves as they branch from the spinal cord and exit through openings between the vertebrae. All tissues, glands and organs supplied with life energy by these nerves are shown in the section marked "B" in the chart. The section marked "C" describes a partial list of the conditions and symptoms that can result when there is an absence of life in the nerves.

B. Area Supplied by Nerves

Blood supply to the head, the pituitary gland, the scalp, bones of the face, the brain itself, inner and middle ear, the sympathetic nervous system.

Eyes, optic nerve, auditory nerve, sinuses, mastoid bones, tongue, forehead.

Cheeks, outer ear, face bones, teeth, tracheal nerve.

Vocal cords, neck glands, pharynx.

Neck muscles, shoulders, tonsils.

Thyroid gland, horse in the shoulders, the elbow.

Arms from the elbows down, including the hands, wrists and fingers, also the esophagus and trachea.

Heart including its valves, and covering, also coronary arteries.

Lungs, bronchial tubes, pleura, chest, breast, nipples.

Stomach.

Pancreas, islands of Langerhans, duodenum.

Spleen, diaphragm.

Kidneys.

Kidneys, ureters.

Small intestines or colon, inguinal rings.

Large intestines or colon, inguinal rings.

Appendix, abdomen, upper leg, cecum.

Sex organs, ovaries or testicles, uterus, bladder, knees.

Lower legs, ankle, feet, toes, arches.

A. Side View of Spine

C. Results of Nerve Impairment

Headaches, nervousness, insomnia, head colds, high blood pressure, migraine headaches, mental conditions, nervous breakdowns, amnesia, epilepsy, infantile paralysis, sleeping sickness, chronic tiredness, dizziness or vertigo, St. Vitus dance.

Sinus trouble, allergies, crossed eyes, deafness, cataracts, eye troubles, scurvy, fainting spells, certain cases of blindness.

Neuralgia, neuritis, acne or pimples, eczema.

Hay fever, rose fever, etc., catarrh, hard of hearing, adenoids.

Laryngitis, hoarseness, throat conditions like a sore throat, quinsy, etc.

Stiff neck, pain in upper arm, tonsillitis, whooping cough, crup.

Bursitis, colds, thyroid conditions, goiter.

Asthma, cough, difficult breathing, shortness of breath, pain in lower arm and hands.

Functional heart conditions and certain chest pain.

Bronchitis, pleurisy, pneumonia, congestion, influenza, grippe.

Gall bladder conditions, jaundice, shingles.

Liver conditions, fevers, low blood pressure, anemia, poor circulation, arthritis.

Stomach troubles including nervous stomach, indigestion, heart burn, dyspepsia, etc.

Diabetes, ulcers, gastritis.

Stomach troubles, hiccoughs.

Allergies, hives.

Kidney troubles, hardening of the arteries, chronic tiredness, nephritis, pyelitis.

Skin conditions like acne, or pimples, eczema, boils, etc., auto-intoxication.

Rheumatism, gas pains, certain types of sterility.

Constipation, colitis, dysentery, diarrhea, ruptures or hernias.

Appendicitis, cramps, difficult breathing, acidosis, varicose veins.

Bladder troubles, many knee pains.

Sciatica, lumbago, difficult, painful or too frequent urination, backaches.

Poor circulation in the legs, swollen ankles, weak ankles and arches, cold feet, weakness in the legs, leg cramps.

Sacroiliac condition, spinal curvatures.

SPINAL NERVE INVOLVEMENT CAUSES MANY CONDITIONS

The spinal chart shown above is directed especially to those people who have tried to regain their health through methods other than chiropractic, and have failed. That failure should not lead to discouragement, but to greater determination to discover the fundamental cause of all disease.

Since the discovery of chiropractic, no one needs to feel that he or she is destined to be sick all their life. Remember, "Where there is life there is hope and he who has hope has everything."

Of growing your own

Fruit trees: Weigh the pros and cons

If you're thinking of growing your own fruit trees, better weigh the pros and cons first. Because so many diseases attack fruit trees, growth and maintenance require persistence, patience and a lot of determination.

Apple scab, the most common disease of apple and crabapple, affects both fruit and leaves. To control it you must begin spraying at silver tip (when buds first crack open). This may be as early as April 1 in southern Michigan and April 15 in the rest of the state. Spraying must continue until a few weeks before harvest.

If you have not planted trees yet, consider planting only varieties resistant to scab. The apple varieties Prima, Priscilla and Sir Prize are available at major nurseries for the home gardener. The fruit quality may be slightly lower than that of some of the more popular varieties, but resistance to apple scab reduces disease problems somewhat.

Avoiding apple scab in susceptible

varieties requires following a regular spray schedule with suitable fungicides — such as a combination of Benlate plus Captan. Fall cleanup of leaves is important, too. If left on the ground around trees, leaves provide a home for the fungus to grow in late fall and early spring. After snow melts and leaves on the ground become wet with rain, spores are forcibly ejected into the air.

If apples sound like too much work, rest assured that pears have their disease problems, too. Pear scab and fire blight are the two most common diseases of pear trees. Though single backyard pear trees may get by with a less stringent disease control program than commercial plantings, pear trees usually don't produce much fruit for the amount of work and time invested.

The stone fruits — peaches, plums and cherries — often suffer from peach leaf curl, brown rot and black knot. An application of ferbam in the fall or early spring before bud break will arrest peach leaf curl. Brown rot, a fungus which infects the blossoms, twigs and fruit, is controlled with Captan, but removal of all fruit, including old dried-up fruits left on trees after last picking, reduces the amount of brown rot overwintering. Fruit with decay on the ground after harvest pose a constant threat.

No fungicide is registered with the Environmental Protection Agency for black knot on plum. The experts recommend cutting out all knots on infected trees, including any wild plum trees that may be in the vicinity. The disease attacks wild cherries but is rare on commercial ones.

Help for the backyard fruit grower is available in Extension Bulletin NCR-45, "Diseases of Fruit Trees," and E-154, "1978 Fruit Pesticide Handbook." These publications are for sale at county Cooperative Extension Service offices.

Annuals add instant color

Spring is sprung! Planting time is here. Why not try some instant color. Consider the riot of color you can have with annual bedding plants around shrubs, in beds alone, and even under trees. Consider too, the selected use of hanging baskets or porch and patio containers of annuals. After a summer-long of beautiful flowering annuals you will be pleased with yourself.

Often overlooked is the extra touch that annual bedding plants give to an otherwise uninteresting blob of green, or how much they add to even the most attractive landscape.

An infinite variety of colors and sizes can be had to brighten the landscape. For oranges and yellows the marigold excels. Fast growing and productive in flowers, they range from a few inches to three feet in height. A real charmer is Primrose Lady marigold, with four-inch, primrose yellow, mum-like flowers on bushy, 18-inch plants with heavy, dark, lustrous foliage. This one is All-America Selection Bronze Medal winner for 1977. Another All-America Selection about the same size with large, double, golden yellowblooms is Marigold Yellow Galore.

For whites, pinks and reds, geraniums are one of the finest. The seed geraniums excel in vigor and bloom. Try the 1977 All-America Selection seed geranium "Showgirl" for a vivid pink. Showgirl is a vigorous grower, with a multitude of flowers from June until frost.

Petunias come in a range from deepest purple (almost black) through blue, red, pink, white and mixtures of all these colors, in both single and double flowers. They love the sun. They lack the true sky-blue colors as yet. Another fine All-America Selection is Petunia "Blushing Maid". It is a prolific producer of double, rose-like blooms of pale pink, shading to darker pink in the centers.

Ageratum and Alyssum have blues, whites and purples. They hug the ground, being only a few inches tall, and plants are carpeted with blooms, in many cases completely hiding the foliage.

The selection of annuals is endless, in all colors of the rainbow. Few plants give us so much color for so long a period of time with so little care.

Some care in selection is needed when planting annuals in shady locations. Those best in shade are Coleus, grown for the variegated, multicolored foliage rather than flowers; Lobelia, one of the true blue flowers, on small, bushy plants;

Impatiens, with pink, salmon or red flowers; Vinca, with heavy, shiny foliage and starlike, white or pink flowers; Begonias, the fibrous rooted variety which are bushy and covered with a mass of small flowers, or Tuberous, with large, showy flowers in a wide variety of colors; and Basil, grown for its dark purple foliage.

Psychology

Those who understand young people say that a good way to teach them responsibility is not merely telling them they should be more responsible, or even assigning them chores, but by getting them interested in a responsible project, on their school vacations, such as recycling aluminum.

This can be good for their characters, look great on college or job application resumes and can help them earn money, since Reynolds Aluminum Recycling will pay 17 cents a pound for recyclable aluminum.

For information about recycling, call, toll-free 800-243-6000. In Connecticut, it's toll-free, 1-800-882-6500.

Fencing keeps critters from harvesting garden

It's easy to admit that rabbits have a right to eat, too — as long as they aren't browsing in your garden. But it's hard to be objective when the rabbits are reaping the fruits of your labor.

"You really have just two choices to keep rabbits out of the garden," says Glenn Dudderar, extension wildlife specialist at Michigan State University. "You can fence them out or you can use chemical taste repellents to discourage their nibbling."

Unless you also have problems with woodchucks or raccoons, a fence made of plastic bird netting fastened to stakes should be sufficient. Plant the stakes in the ground and string a rope or strong cord between them. Then fasten the netting to the stakes and the rope. It should be at least 24 inches high and lap outward away from the garden for 12 to 18 inches.

"A rabbit trying to get into the garden runs into the net, which is too high for him to jump over," Dudderar related. "If he tries to dig under the net, he's foiled by the netting on the ground. You and I can see that all he needs to do is back up a little and then dig, but the rabbit can't reason that way."

Woodchucks and raccoons won't stop to ponder a bird netting fence — they'll just climb right over it. A chicken wire enclosure built according to a particular plan will frustrate them, however.

"A fence to keep raccoons and groundhogs out needs to be loose and sloppy-looking," Dudderar said. "They'll swarm right up and over a snug, vertical fence. Instead, tack chicken wire onto stakes so that it forms a loose C-shape facing away from the garden. Put the tacks or staples halfway up the stakes so that, when the animal climbs up, the top of the wire is free to bend downward with its weight. The animal eventually will learn that all its climbing gets it nowhere but back where it started."

Taste repellents are another possibility, but they have certain built-in limitations, Dudderar pointed out. They are highly water soluble, so they wash off in even a light rain and must be reapplied frequently. They don't migrate about the plant, so they must be applied to all new growth as it appears. They cannot be used on any plant parts that humans will eat. And, simply because they are chemicals that humans must use, they can very easily be misused.

"Taste repellents do work," Dudderar said, "but you have to be persistent and careful with them for them to be safe and effective. A fence is much easier. You put it up once and it stays up as long as you need it. Bird netting or chicken wire can be used over and over. Netting can even be flipped up on the rope between the stakes so you can mow under it."

Editorial opinions

Who would oppose Tax Limitation?

Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, that Southfield based group currently engaged in a state-wide petition drive to collect the necessary 266,000 signatures that would secure a place on this fall's ballot for its tax limitation proposal, has designated Saturday, June 3, as "Sign a Petition for Tax Limitation in Michigan Day".

According to Dr. Milton Friedman, honorary co-chairman of the tax reform group, "The average American works from Jan. 1 to May 29 just to pay taxes, and June 3 is the first Saturday of the year when the effort exerted by Americans will directly benefit themselves and not the government."

The tax limitation proposal is very similar to a measure presented to Michigan voters in 1976 that was called Proposal C. That measure failed to gain voter support primarily because of strong opposition from school officials who feared that such a proposal would adversely affect school financing.

It was that effort by school officials that so effectively confused the voters of this state in 1976. And, there appears to be little reason to believe that school officials will not again attempt to guarantee their own financial independence at the expense of Michigan taxpayers.

"I am convinced that the only reasonable way the people of Michigan are going to control state, local and property taxes is by passing the Tax Limitation Amendment sponsored by Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation," said Dr. Friedman.

We agree, but would go one step further.

We feel that this may be the last opportunity for Michigan to check the out-of-control spending that will most certainly drive the Michigan taxpayer to the brink of bankruptcy.

We at Associated Newspaper hope that school officials within this area are not so shortsighted as to once again oppose the many long-range benefits to all of the people of Michigan that would be derived from provisions of the Tax Limitation Proposal now being worked for.

And, we also hope that the employees of the school systems think first about the welfare of their children's children, and not just about the size of next year's raise.

For too long, too many people have operated on the philosophy that what is good for them is good for the country and state. While to some extent that is certainly true. But the financial stability of the entire state should be considered primary to one's own personal situation.

Something needs to be done to correct this distorted perspective. The tax limitation proposal could very well be the best solution.

Huron in Suburbia?

Time heals all things, or so it is said. But in the minds and budgets of many area officials, time cannot heal the growing dissatisfaction with the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and that body's apparent disregard for Western Wayne County.

Last summer, discontent had reached the peak with many local officials vowing to support moves to limit the power of the county in matters involving strictly Western Wayne county matters.

The catalyst at that time was the county's control over routing and financing of 'Super Sewer'.

Following several meetings by local officials, it became apparent that the commissioners were not really very interested in this part of the county. With the county's Department of Public Works manned with a Detroit majority, it became just another game of power politics, with the power as usual in the hands of Detroit.

It was during the heat of that issue that state Rep. Thomas Brown (D-37), presented the state House of Representatives with a proposal to separate existing Wayne County into two parts. The new governmental body thus formed would be called the County of Suburbia.

While Brown's resolution was met with snickers from his Lansing colleagues, many western Wayne county officials did not feel that the subject was offered only in jest.

After the brief flurry of comment following Brown's proposal, the issue quietly died and little has been heard of it since. Until last week.

It was last week that Huron Township officially requested that its supervisor, John Puskar, look into the possibility of Huron seceding from Wayne County, and joining Monroe County.

Cited as the reason for the move was Wayne County's apparent poor delivery of services to the township's 9,000 residents who must rely on the county for a substantial portion of their needs. In addition, Huron officials feel that Wayne County, even if they were delivering necessary services, were charging too much for them.

Monroe County taxes average about two-thirds of the Wayne County rates, and according to Huron officials, even if Monroe did no more for the township than Wayne has done, their price was much more attractive. Bottom line.

It is becoming more and more apparent that the tax burden placed on residents of Wayne County is both unfair and unbalanced in its eventual distribution.

We can see no good reason for the residents of Western Wayne County to continue subsidizing the city of Detroit, while other neighboring counties, benefitting from the Detroit Metro area, do not.

We suggested last year that the concept of the County of Suburbia was an interesting one, one worth further consideration. If for no other reason, the Detroit dominated county Board of Commissioners would become aware that western Wayne county was a force not to be overlooked.

We wish John Puskar and his Huron Township Board of Trustees luck in their dealings with Monroe County.

But Huron Township, why don't you take the rest of us with you?

Probate law revisions eyed

The Majority Leader
State Senator William Faust
13th District

Michigan's probate law consists of a series of rules and regulations, involving proceedings which oftentimes can be time-consuming and complicated. Basically, probate law guarantees that a deceased person's property is handled properly, that taxes and debts are paid, and that property is distributed according to the wishes of the deceased person.

If there is a written will, the wishes of the deceased are usually followed as closely as possible. If there is no will, the state assumes that property should be distributed according to the traditional order of inheritance, which gives priority to a surviving spouse and children.

Probate law requires that someone must be legally responsible for administering a deceased person's estate from the time of death until all the property is distributed. In the cases of supervised probate, the court assumes overall authority and delegates the distribution of the estate to an executor or administrator. In the case of independent probate, a personal representative is delegated the responsibility for administering the estate.

In all probate proceedings, measures are taken to insure the protection of all the persons who are affected by the estate.

They have the right to receive accounts of the state and its administration, and to petition to protect their own interests.

The Michigan Probate Code was adopted in 1939, and since then there have been no major revisions. There are currently two bills in the Legislature, Senate Bill 12 and House Bill 4475, which call for changes in the present code. Many people feel that the probate proceedings today are outdated and are needlessly complex, resulting in unnecessary delay and expense.

Since the transference of property at death affects each of us sooner or later, probate reform advocates are appealing for streamlined and less complex court procedures. They argue that only a major overhaul can reduce the expense, delay and frustration many people encounter today in having an estate probated.

Basically, SB 12 and HB 4475 have two common goals: first, to modernize inheritance law, and to make it relevant to the needs and wishes of the average person in today's society; and, second, to simplify the process by which property passes from one generation to the next, so that heirs can get their inheritance with a minimum of delay and expense.

Both of these bills address changes in the present probate law to solve the problems of complexity, time and expense. They establish processes for probating wills and administering estates and trusts. The major difference between these bills is that SB 12 begins with new concepts and makes no attempt to intermingle them in Michigan's present Probate Code. HB 4475 attempts to retain that which is familiar in the present Probate Code and introduces new concepts, particularly, independent administration of estates.

SB 12 and HB 4475 are currently before the Senate Judiciary Committee for consideration. Each bill will receive a thorough examination before a final decision is made. It is imperative that deliberations on the proposed measures be comprehensive and complete before any final action is taken.

An effort in the area of probate reform must insure that the procedures serve to promote the best interests of the people of the State of Michigan. Probate law is a complex area, and change is usually a long, complicated process. But the process has been started and, hopefully, in the near future we will see measures permitting faster, less complicated probate proceedings.

California taxes bad, but Michigan's worse

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

Once again the eyes of the nation will be focused on California voters, but this time it is not the politicians that will be attracting the attention.

On June 8, the California primary ballot will include the Jarvis-Gann Tax Initiative question.

For any of you who have not heard about the controversial tax proposal authored by Howard Jarvis, former state legislator and long-time critic of big government, the plan would limit property tax to a mere one-percent of real value owned by the taxpayer.

"Big deal," you say. "So what," you exclaim. Well, if you take a look at your last tax bill you will probably find that your total property tax bill for last year came to around three-percent of your home's market value.

Of course, where you live will have a large effect on the total tax bill you are stuck with, but most of us are in the three-percent neighborhood, and a bad neighborhood it is.

For most observers of the escalating tax scene, and that includes any of us who are presently still breathing, it has come as no large surprise that California would be the leader of any taxpayers' revolt. For years we have heard about the abused and overburdened taxpayers of that state who have been forced to underwrite many grand and liberal programs regardless of cost.

But take note!!!

The abused taxpayer of California who lives in a $30,000 home has been paying around $620 per year in property tax. The Michigan taxpayer living in the same priced home, sans palm trees, paid around $900 in property taxes last year.

And the game goes on and on. Michigan taxpayers living in an $80,000 home paid more than $2,600 in property taxes last year, while their abused counterparts in California paid a paltry $2,000.

Do you get the message?

Nationally, it has been conceded that the taxpayers of California have been overburdened by property taxes, overburdened to the point of being forced out of their homes.

But, during that same period of time, little if any comment has been made regarding the plight of the Michigan taxpayer, and his even larger burden.

Overlooking the argument that any taxation is without representation because of our unresponsive and invisible elected officials, it is a safe assumption that most rational human beings understand the need for taxation. But, when greed is substituted for need, and the frills become more important than the issues, something must be done. And, it is highly unlikely that it will be done by anyone elected to spend money. If it is to be done at all, it must be done by the people who are paying the taxes.

So, if the voters of California approve the Jarvis-Gann tax initiative question on the June 8 ballot, I hope that they will be kind enough to send Howard Jarvis east.

Jarvis could become Michigan's George Washington by cutting down the money tree that our politicians have been so productively picking for so many years.

Politicians and government will never become efficient as long as the taxpayers of this state do not insist on efficiency. So telephone or write your elected officials and let them know that you have had just about enough of the ever-increasing tax bills being forced on you and your family.

Listed below are the addresses and phone numbers of the people you have elected to represent you. Why not find out in this election year just how interested they really are in holding on to their jobs.

Citizen's Advisory Committee thanks community

Dear Editor;

The Citizen's Advisory Council (formerly the Van Buren School District Advisory Committee) would like to thank all school and community groups and individuals who contributed to the Advisory Council.

We wish to make our accounts public and express our intent for the use of the left-over monies.

Since forming as a school advisory group, we have collected $1,259.00. For the millage campaign, the sum of $970.45 was spent. The Advisory Council feels that the remaining $288.55 should be used to further implement communication processes that would enhance the general education of the school children of Van Buren Schools.

Currently, the Council is discussing ways to most efficiently use the surplus monies in the best interest of the children of Van Buren Schools.

We ask our community to submit any ideas you have concerning ways to spend the remaining fund to further emphasize a good basic education in Van Buren Schools.

We would like to state that although several members (Delores Temple and Mike Mlsna) are running in the current election of Board of Education members, no monies collected specifically for Advisory Council activities will be used for their campaign.

Only money specifically designated for candidates will be used toward their respective campaigns.

For the Handicapped

Dear Editor,

As a member of the Parent Advisory Committee of Wayne County Intermediate School District and Romulus School District, I am interested in sharing with others information on what the school are doing for handicapped infants, preschoolers, children and young adults.

I fully support the Project Find activities. I have been on the Project Find Committee for two years. We hope to reach all those who have special needs.

As a result of the Mandatory Special Education Act and Federal laws, public schools provide various services and programs for persons from birth through twenty-five years of age who have possible vision, hearing, speech, language, learning, physical health, or emotional problems. Programs for very young children may include home teaching.

Many parents do not hear of these services for children suspected of having a problem until their child enters school.

Help your child get an early start. Call your local school district Special Services Department at 941-0272 or Project Find in Wayne County at 381-4188.

Forgive and Forget?

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

A group of us were sitting around coffee-kitching when we got to talking about forgiving and forgetting. The way we got to talking about it is because a friend of my friend Myrtle was having a hard time forgiving her husband after he'd tried to shove her down the garbage disposal.

"I told her she should just forgive and forget," my friend Myrtle said.

"How can you forget something like that?" I asked. "Every time you go past that garbage disposal you're bound to shiver."

"Maybe she should just forgive," Myrtle said, "and not try to forget. Because if she forgets she's liable to find herself in some sewer making eyes at the fishes."

"Do fish live in sewers?" my friend Jan asked, innocently enough. "Sure. Think of all the goldfish you've flushed down," Myrtle answered.

"But they're dead," Jan said.

"Well, she'll be dead, too, if she gets shoved down the garbage disposal."

Before Jan could answer, Myrtle turned to forgiving and forgetting and after the coffee pot was empty I went home. But I couldn't get the conversation out of my mind while I raced with the clock, shoving stuff under the sofas and throwing the breakfast dishes in the dishwasher. It isn't often that a bunch of coffee klatchers get so philosophical.

"I think I'll go out and interview more women and see how they feel about forgiving and forgetting," I told myself as I threw some hamburger helper into the skillet.

So the next morning I went over to Betty's where I found five other women getting ready to pass the day away.

"Tell me," I said as I poured a steaming cup of coffee. "What do you think about forgiving and forgetting?"

"I think it's all right to forgive but I'm not one to forget," Betty said.

"The only way I can forgive is to make sure it isn't going to happen again," Sarah said. "So I don't let him out at night."

"Oh, I can forget all right," Lilly said, "because I forget everything. Why only yesterday I forgot where I'd left my baby. I found him in the grocery cart at Wrigley's... But then I forgot where I'd left my car so I had to carry him all the way home. I'm good at forgetting...."

"I'm pretty good at forgetting, too," Martha said. "Why just yesterday I saw my husband having lunch with some female creep. So I forgot to make supper."

"What did he do?" Lilly asked.

"Oh, he forgave me and went out to McDonald's," Martha answered.

"But didn't he say anything?" Lilly asked.

"Nope. He forgot to come home," Martha answered.

I went back to my friend Myrtle's house and told her that there was a lot of controversy about forgiving and forgetting, and we put the coffee on and talked about that.

That's how come no one at my house is forgiving me.

"It's easy to forget you have a mother," they told me. "If she's never home."

On the Brighter Side

True love story

By JIM BRADLEY

Twenty-three years ago this Sunday — June 4, 1955 — I anxiously stood beside the minister and watched my lovely bride-to-be walk slowly down the center aisle.

In pure white flowing gown and crown, radiantly beautiful as only a bride can be, she joyfully approached the altar where we would soon be joined in eternal union. Familiar strains of the wedding march filled the hushed sanctuary as the organist's nimble fingers danced over the keys.

Handkerchiefs dabbed away reluctant tears. Teenage girls smiled expectantly at each other and craned their necks to catch a glimpse of the slowly moving white-clad princess.

This princess was dressed in white — a tribute to the purity she brought to our marriage — and in her hand she held a fragrant bouquet of flowers. The bouquet was like a magic wand that has blessed these married years with much happiness.

Twenty-three years ago — it seems but yesterday — I took my wife "til death us do part." She's brought to my life a gentle touch and guiding hand to help raise three grown sons. Besides her sweet charm and efficiency, her usual tranquil nature helps her subdue life's compelling needs.

Whatever she touches seems to bear the distinct mark of success. A glowing light among so many darkened embers in the world's fireplace, she's unique in so many ways. To my sometimes faltering, unsteady steps she's given moral and spiritual strength — a hand on my shoulder that's provided more courage than a thousand friends.

Not only did she bring to me a sweet young maiden pure — she's kept her youthful charm and innocence despite the rigor and demands of passing years. She proved that girls need not be mauled or pawed like clothes at a bargain sale. No trial marriage was necessary — or experimentation — or living together outside the bounds of decency.

And yet she has complete freedom. Freedom that is spawned from liberty born of love. Truth shall set us free, and she moves with unbridled enthusiasm as one who knows and loves the truth.

As fresh as the morning dew or spring's first rose is her ready smile and gracious heart. My wife, Pansy, was the first flower child I ever knew and she's adorned my life with the fragrance of a thousand rose gardens.

On our 23rd wedding anniversary I quote the words of the poet Roy Croft to express my feelings of gratitude:

"I love you, not only for what you are, but for what I am when I am with you. I love you, not only for what you have made of yourself, but for what you are making of me."

"I love you because you are helping me to make of the lumber of my life — Not a tavern, but a temple; out of the works of my every day not a reproach but a song."

"I love you because you have done more than any creed could have done to make me good, and more than any fate could have done to make me happy."

"You have done it without a touch, without a word, without a sign. You have done it by being yourself. Perhaps that is what being a friend means, after all."

A Heroin addict talks about society

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

This morning, as I was gathering data for this column, I had the opportunity to sit and talk with a heroin addict.

It was an incredible experience, in that I heard some things which are hard to accept as fact; I heard some other things which simply cannot be published in a newspaper; and I heard some things which both appalled and sickened me.

Initially, the reader must understand that a drug abuser will tell an interviewer only what the user wants to tell. People like myself come from the square world and as such represent the establishment — whatever that might mean? We squares are often suspect!

Hence, I have no illusions that this piece and the ones to follow in what I hope to be a series on substance abuse, will represent the definitive word. Interpretation and analysis must be the responsibility of the reader; the only claim I make is that what I'll write is a true account of what I have been, and will be told by users, professionals in the medical field, and others who flirt with the never-never world of substance abuse.

The first interview was with a young lady, age 19 going on 40! She'd been addicted to heroin for three years, and is now in a methadone maintenance program.

To ask an addict why he or she started using drugs is as futile as asking why the grass is green or why oxygen is invisible.

I heard the entire "it's society's fault" litany. It's terribly convenient, I thought, to blame one's personal lack of responsibility on another entity. By employing such tactics, the deviant is sure to have some segments of that same society fawn all over him or her pandering to every whimper.

When I asked the young lady just what a person such as myself could have done or said that would have convinced her that sticking a needle in her arm was not a 'cool' thing to do, she replied with some words that I believe I'll never forget.

"You might not understand this," she said, "but frankly there wasn't a damn thing that anyone would have done or said three years ago to get through to me. Sure, I know now that living on dope is dumb and self-destructive. But take a good look at me — it's a little late for me to know now, isn't it?"

"Look man, my kidneys are all screwed up and so is my stomach. I'm 19 years old and already have been busted for shop lifting, hustling, and once as an accessory in an armed robbery. But what the hell, no one really cares anyway. Do you?"

I was going to respond by saying that indeed I did care. But I thought better of such a response. It would play into her hand, and again I'd be in the position listening to another chapter in the poor-little-me story.

I opted for a different response. "Consider the facts as they are. Obviously there are some folks who care because at this moment, you are being treated by a psychiatrist, a physician, a social worker, and a clergyman. Your food is provided, you have clothing and a decent place in which to live. If you took the time to think about it, you just might translate all of that into one simple word — love."

"If these people didn't care, do you really think they'd go to all the trouble they are going to and that society would spend so much money to try and help you through a situation that you must admit is partially your own doing?"

With that sermon completed, I sat back confident that I'd scored heavily. How could she dispute the passion of my logic?

Her eyes burned into mine. She smirked and then offered a gesture with one finger of her right hand which universally means "nuts to you!"

On a recent Saturday dawn, Pamela J. Danley of Carriage Lane, Belleville, claimed the hot air balloon ride, with Sue Tkachik, that she won in a drawing for Manufacturers Bank employees. In the international banking department, Ms. Danley was one of three winners

New county jail passes planning commission hurdle

The pending new Wayne County jail is an immediate step closer following a public hearing and recommendation by the Detroit City Planning Commission to permit construction adjacent to police headquarters downtown.

In a meeting May 11, the Planning Commission recommended rezoning of the land on both sides of Macomb Street between Beaubien and St. Antoine, which is an "L" shaped parcel directly east and south of police headquarters across from Recorder's Court and the existing county jail.

If the site authorized by the council, groundbreaking for the jail will begin "within a matter of days," said County Board Chairman Jarrette Simmons.

Mrs. Simmons, after the hearing, said she was very "thrilled" that the Planning Commission favored the proposed site and that no opposition was raised.

"Every day of delay is costing us money, and the public is anxiously awaiting this occasion," she added. "It has taken a lot of negotiations and debate, but at this point I think that all the major sources of concern are joined in agreement. We're ready to go."

She said that letters already have been sent from the county commissioners and Board of Auditors to other elected officials and numerous community leaders asking them to plan for a jail-site dedication late this month or early June. The exact date will be announced after the City Council decision May 22, she explained.

"Aside from the voters who have individually approved this jail construction, many specific persons and organizations have been particularly important to this project, and we are trying to make sure that everybody who is deserving is included," Mrs. Simmons said. County Commissioner Richard E. Manning from Redford was the Commissioners' chief spokesman at the hearing. He is chairman of a special subcommittee formed to speed the new jail construction.

Manning pointed out that the 600-cell, 13-story facility will employ 300 people to patronize Greektown shops everyday. About 200 of these will be in addition to those already working in the criminal justice complex.

The south part of the "L" shaped plot will include a 30-foot tall administration building and a two-story parking structure for 110 vehicles.

"We are planning construction that will last 50 to 60 years and will in every way possible enhance Greektown and certainly not overpower it," Manning stressed. "We've considered other sites and other configurations, but this is the one we are now convinced will provide us with the 'biggest bang for the dollar' the voters have authorized us to use."

Manning noted that employees of City General Hospital occupy about 500 spaces in the parking garage next door, which they will relinquish when the hospital relocates to the medical-center development about three miles north.

Manning said that the jail will require up to two years for construction, during which time the hospital will be moved.

HCMA officials offer swimming safety tips

As soon as summer-like temperatures arrive, outdoor enthusiasts will be heading for beaches, pools and lakes located at the Huron-Clinton metroparks and other fun spots in southeastern Michigan.

Disregard or ignorance of good water safety practices ranks high in the causes of drownings. Regardless of swimming ability, everyone must follow personal water safety to be safe in the aquatic environment.

Park rangers, water safety supervisors and other Huron-Clinton metropark personnel join with the Water Safety Department of the American Red Cross in offering these water safety tips:

—Learn to swim well enough to survive in an emergency.

—Do not swim alone and swim only with a "buddy" who has the ability to help when necessary.

—Swim only in supervised areas, such as at beaches or pools and only when lifeguards are on duty. Stay within the markers to avoid conflicts with boats.

—Do not dive or jump into unknown waters.

—Follow the rules established for the particular pool, beach or waterfront where you are swimming.

—Do not swim long distances out from shore. Swim parallel to the shores so that if you become tired you can still touch bottom.

—Know your limitations and do not overestimate your ability.

—Do not try to swim long distances, either on the surface or underwater. Do not try to swim under objects such as diving rafts and boats.

—If you are overheated, stay out of the water and cool off before returning to the water. Although the water temperature may not be very low, if you are overheated, it can be a shock to your system.

—Stay out of the water immediately after eating. Wait long enough for digestion to take place.

—Stay out of the water during electrical storms.

—Do not substitute inflated tubes, air mattresses, or other artificial supports for swimming ability.

—Avoid long periods of immersion and overexposure to the sun.

—Watch children closely whenever they are near the water and/or in the water.

—Be especially careful early in the season. At this time persons are often not in good condition as they were the previous summer. Also the cold water drains energy much faster than warmer water later in the season.

—Take instructions under qualified instructors before participating in such aquatic sports as skin and scuba diving and water-skiing.

—Call for "Help" only when you are in trouble and really need it.

—Water safety is everyone's responsibility, even when lifeguards are on duty.

MLCC ponders change

Michigan bar patrons may soon be able to compete in disco dance contests and play backgammon or Monopoly in licensed establishments under proposed amendments to the rules of the Liquor Control Commission of the Department of Commerce.

The commission is considering a variety of changes in its regulations governing entertainment and gambling in restaurants and bars with licenses to sell alcoholic beverages.

Among the proposed changes are revisions which would allow liquor licensees to have contests in conjunction with dancing if certain provisions are met.

The rules currently say the only audience participation allowed in entertainment is community singing.

Under the proposed rules, licensees also could advertise contests under certain conditions, although they wouldn't be permitted to give away liquor as a prize.

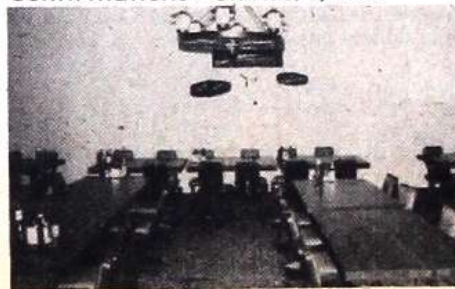

The commission also has made revisions to its rules on gambling and gaming. Present regulations list specific paraphernalia such as slot machines, punch or pull boards and dice games as banned items. The proposed rules prohibit only "unlawful gaming on licensed premises and gambling devices on the licensed premises which are prohibited by the statutes of the State of Michigan."

That means such dice games as Monopoly and backgammon would be allowed.

Copies of the proposed amendments are available from Walter Keck, Hearings and Appeals Section, Liquor Control Commission.

POAM head blasts wage restraints

The executive director of the state-wide Police Officers Association of Michigan, Carl Parsell, warned members, attending a recent meeting POAM delegate, not to "fall for" President Carter's call for wage restraints during their contract negotiations.

"The city fathers and county commissioners never question cost overruns on construction projects," Parsell said. "They always have the money to purchase new equipment and vote themselves pay raises. But when it comes times to negotiate a contract with police officers, they ask us to be benevolent."

"I'm telling you, that we'll quit asking for more money when they quit raising the prices in the supermarket. Cops shop in the same supermarkets everyone else shop in."

When they put a freeze on price hikes, we'll put a freeze on pay hikes."

Parsell also lashed out against a proposal to construct an amusement theme park in the Kensington Metropark near Brighton.

An organization called Kensington Children Farm and Village Corporation is planning to install mechanical rides and shops as part of a "children's farm" at the metropark.

"There already is a scarcity of uncommercialized public parkland where police officers and other citizens can take their families for recreational outings," Parsell said. "I urge all law enforcement officers throughout the state to voice their strong disapproval against the development of taxpayer purchased parkland by private companies anywhere in the state."

We put up a lot...

For a little down.

Sure we put up a lot of buildings—more, perhaps, than any other builder around. We also put more into them. Careful planning and engineering, quality materials and components, expert construction. We also back them better, with a 5-year warranty written into your contract. We put a lot in, you get a lot out.

You can get into one of our buildings for very little down, too, with a choice of convenient payment plans to fit your budget. You can even defer the start of your payments for three months, if you like—begin using your building right away, pay for it later. Models, plans and sizes for every need. We'd like to build one for you.

Medicare and nursing homes

What that insurance will and won't cover

(Reprinted as a public service by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan with the permission of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Indiana.)

(Sixth in a series)

In the United States today, nearly nine out of 10 nursing home residents are over 65, and 55 of every 1,000 persons in this age group are residents of nursing homes.

Although these "nursing home" residents are of Medicare age, there's a good chance Medicare isn't paying for their stay.

Medicare qualifies certain nursing homes as "skilled nursing facilities" or SNFs — extensions of hospitals. In fact, Medicare hospital insurance helps pay for care only if all of five key conditions exist.

(1) You must have been in a hospital at least three days in a row (not counting the day of discharge) before you transfer to a skilled nursing facility.

(2) You must be transferred to the SNF because you require care for a condition which was treated in the hospital.

(3) You must be admitted to the SNF within a short time (generally 14 days) after you leave the hospital.

(4) A doctor must certify that you need and actually receive skilled nursing or skilled rehabilitation services on a daily basis.

(5) The SNFs Utilization Review Committee or a "Professional Standards Review Organization (PSRO)" does not disapprove your stay.

By skilled nursing care, Medicare means care that can only be performed by, or under the supervision of, licensed nursing personnel. Skilled rehabilitation services may include physical, occupational or speech therapy, but in any case only under the general direction of a doctor.

Folks in nursing homes who are not covered by Medicare generally are there for what Medicare considers "custodial care," or for skilled care on an occasional basis like once or twice a week. And, there are some specific items Medicare excludes for all recipients like television, telephone, private duty nurses, and extra charges for a private room (unless your doctor says you must have it).

When you stay in a SNF is covered by Medicare, the hospital insurance will pay for up to 100 days. If you leave a SNF and are re-admitted within 14 days, you do not have to have a new three-day stay in a hospital, and you can use what's left of your 100 Medicare days.

However, for each stay (also called a benefit period) Medicare pays for all covered services for the first 20 days. After that it pays all except $18 a day.

This daily allowance takes care of your semi-private room, your meals, regular nursing services, rehabilitation services, drugs furnished by the SNF, medical and supplies and the use (but not personal purchase) of equipment like a wheelchair. Items of durable medical equipment are covered in certain instances only for use in the patient's home, not a skilled nursing facility.

Your doctor bills while you are in a SNF are paid for by Medicare the same as if you were in a hospital. The medical insurance (Part B) portion of Medicare provides this coverage.

You should always make sure that the persons or organizations providing services are approved for Medicare payments. They are termed "Medicare Participating." If you are not sure, ask them.

Think about nursing home care early. It's a fact that many families do not think about "extended care facilities" or which one they would choose until the decision is upon them. At that time the patient is often too sick to take part in the selection.

If an older person can find a nursing home he likes before he needs one, he is more secure about his future and tends to be happier when he actually enters the facility.

Shopping around in advance also will forewarn you of any financial surprises. Medicare is fairly comprehensive, but it's not a full payment program. There is as much as 30 percent difference in the most and least expensive nursing homes.

Evaluating the long term health care alternatives is a process involving prospective patients, their families and their doctors. It is wise to be prepared.

Energy Day will focus on 'a new day coming'

An energy-packed program, featuring hundreds of workshops, demonstrations and exhibits is slated for visitors at 4-H Energy Days '78 June 23-24 at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

Focusing on the theme, "There's a New Day Coming," the two-day event will look at the energy situation today, alternative energy sources for tomorrow and what can be done in the meantime to conserve energy and reduce costs, according to Dr. Lowell Rothert, the program's coordinator.

Sponsored by the MSU Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Youth Program in cooperation with the Michigan Energy Administration, the entire event is open to the public at no charge. The program begins on June 23 with workshops on solar and wind energy, building electric cars and bicycling.

Throughout the day on Friday and Saturday, more than 60 commercial energy exhibits will be on display in Spartan Stadium. Exhibits include a solar greenhouse, wood-burning stoves and furnaces, insulation and many other items.

On June 24, a special program features demonstrations, exhibits and performances by thousands of Michigan 4-Hers.

"The program has something for everyone in the family," said Dr. Norman A. Brown, Michigan 4-H program director.

"The day's activities include bicycle racing, dog relays, omelet making and applying clown make-up. It's a great way to have fun and see today's kids in action," Brown concluded.

Energy Days '78 is the finale to 4-H Exploration Days. Each year Exploration Days attracts more than 4,500 4-Hers to the MSU campus for three days of action-oriented learning. The youngsters choose from 158 different learning options that range from Michigan mountaineering and crafts to African dancing and judo.

For a brochure and additional information on the 4-H Energy Days

'78 program, contact the Cooperative Extension Service office.

Rep. Ford denounces new postal rate hike

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) has expressed outrage at the Postal Rate Commission's rejection of his citizen postal rate proposal, which would have established a 13-cent stamp for personal mail.

Ford said he was "unable to understand the commission's utter disregard of the people's needs."

"What Congress had in mind when it created the Postal Rate Commission," Congressman Ford said, "was a vigilant regulatory agency that would stand up to powerful lobbying groups representing business mail users. We looked to the commission to begin showing some interest in lifting from the shoulders of individual mail users the heavy burden of paying the difference between actual operating costs and the preferential rates enjoyed by business."

"Instead, I find that we have put our trust in a group of appointed officials who apparently perceive their role as protecting the cut-rate postage prices given to business. The commission, in effect, is telling the American citizen: 'look out for yourself, because we're here to take care of business mailers'."

Congressman Ford pointed out that his bill — HR 7537, The Citizens' Postal Rate Relief Act of 1977 — would be re-introduced soon in "improved form" and that he had been assured of early hearings by Rep. James H. Hanley (D-NY), chairman of the House Subcommittee on Postal Operations and Services.

"I trust my colleagues who already have indicated their support for a 13-cent rate paid by individuals sending personal mail by co-sponsoring my bill, will help to right this injustice perpetrated by the Republican-dominated Postal Rate Commission," Congressman Ford said. "I am confident that the Congress will prove more responsive than the rate commission to the needs of the people."

When he introduced his bill last year, Congressman Ford pointed out that present laws not only give preferential rates to business mailers, but also permit corporations to write off their postage costs.

"This means that while the private citizen is paying 13 cents to mail a letter," he said, "the corporations are actually paying only about 6½ cents."

Congressman Ford's criticism of the Postal Rate Commission followed its decision on the U.S. Postal Service request for changes in various postal rates and services. Included was a proposal for a 13-cent "citizen rate" for personal mail sent by individuals, which would continue after regular first class postage rises to 16 cents.

Ex-Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar had added the citizen rate request to the proposals submitted to the rate commission after an endorsement by President Carter. The President declared that "as a matter of national policy it would be in the public interest to pursue the concept of a citizen rate first-class postage for use by consumers."

OEDP will help attract fed money

Help for local communities in the attraction of federal money is on its way. Following the first meeting of the "newly formed" Overall Economic Development Program Committee (OEDP) for Wayne County.

Jarrette Simmons, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, explained that formation of the committee was necessary to enable the 43 communities in Wayne County to compete for dollars of the federal Economic Development Administration.

"In 1979, the federal government expects to set aside more than $625 million to be used by local communities that are suffering an unemployment rate of 6½ percent or more to encourage economic expansion and new developments," Simmons said. "Communities within the county can now vie with other localities throughout the country for a substantial portion of those funds, so long as the entire state receives no more than 15 percent of the total allotment."

The OEDP committee will help the local communities by investigating the needs and resources of the county and developing a strategy for development project ideas which will be acceptable to the federal government on the basis of their permanent job-producing potential. Without this priority-setting committee, the County could not qualify for EDA funds.

At its first session,

May 12, the 24-member committee received background information from State Economic Development Representative James Collison, Regional EDA community planners Janet Cyra and Art Leonard and the County Planning Commission.

Collison described the formation of OEDP committee as the forerunner for local control of federal grant programs, which local communities have been seeking in federal fund development.

The committee asked Joseph D. Crea, chief system supervisor of Detroit Edison, to serve as its acting chairman until the next meeting in June. At that time the committee will take up the matter of election of officers and formal structure.

County board voices opposition to Juvenile Justice Code revisions

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners again has voted its opposition to proposed revision of the State juvenile justice code—this time because of the $6.8 million price tag for the county.

Last December, the board opposed the proposed revisions on grounds that the removal of "status" offenses (truancy and curfew violations) from Juvenile Court jurisdiction would deprive parents of control over their own children.

The board's latest expression of opposition was voted at a May 11 meeting of the Ways and Means Committee, consisting of all 27 commissioners. Formal board action was expected May 18.

"The legislation now pending would saddle Wayne County Juvenile Court with complex new procedures which would cost $6.8 million per year," explained Commissioner Samuel A. Turner (D-Detroit), Ways and Means chairman. "We already face a potential budget deficit of up to $12 million. There is no way we can absorb the horrendous additional costs of this new legislation."

Striking a related theme, the Ways and Means Committee opposed pending state legislation which would add two circuit judges to the 33-judge Wayne County bench unless the state also provides the $300,000 annual cost of operating each additional courtroom.

The Ways and Means Committee acted after hearing Chief Juvenile Court Judge Y. Gladys Barsamian express her opposition to the juvenile justice revisions for the same reasons.

In addition to "prohibitive" higher costs, Judge Barsamian charged, the revisions would "deal a death blow to the Juvenile Court system of Michigan."

"It represents an attack on the fundamental institutions of our society—the family, the school and the police," Barsamian said.

The judge earlier had expressed her opposition in an appearance before the House Judiciary Committee in Lansing.

The proposed code revisions are contained in two identical measures, House Bill 6184 and Senate Bill 1463.

Barsamian charged that removal of status offenders from Juvenile Court jurisdiction will allow children "to run the streets without control" and require policy simply to drive curfew violators home.

She said the revisions would require a tremendous increase in Juvenile Court staff—six more judges, 20 more referees, 34 more prosecutors and 45 more courtrooms—and make the county's new James H. Lincoln Hall of Juvenile Justice obsolete before it ever opens next year.

Alfred N. Montgomery, director of the Detroit-Wayne County Criminal Justice Coordinating Council, told the commissioners it could cost up to $12 million more to operate Juvenile Court at its current efficiency level. He recommended that the Board of Commissioners oppose the legislation "until such time as full and completely adequate state funding is guaranteed."

Turner said proposed revisions also practically erase the distinction between children and adults in the court process, thus undermining the court's effectiveness in dealing with the specialized problems involving juveniles.

Meanwhile, the county board's Financial Crisis Committee recommended a new policy designed to further tighten the lid on spending.

The policy would require board committees to identify funding sources from the departments under their jurisdiction in recommending additional appropriations for the balance of this year.

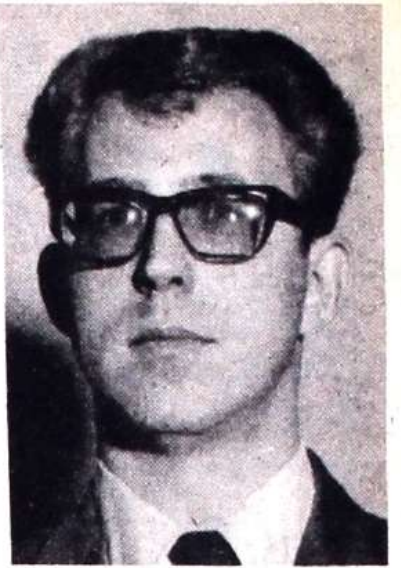

Cancer self-help group set

The American Cancer Society has established a self-help group for cancer patients and family members. This program is known as "Focus On Living."

The purpose of the group is to allow persons affected by cancer the opportunity to discuss their concerns. Under the guidance of a nurse-moderator, problem areas are discussed. The members of the group get answers to their questions, have misconceptions corrected, and gain support from others who are sharing the same experience.

"Focus On Living" meets on the third Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in Dining Room D of Wayne County General Hospital. The next meeting will be tomorrow.

For further information, call the American Cancer Society at 336-0030.

Ford bills encourage solar energy usage

A sweeping package of bills to encourage the development of solar energy and other renewable energy courses has been co-sponsored by Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District).

Congressman Ford introduced the legislation with a group of other representatives who have formed a Solar Coalition to work on the nation's energy problems.

Last year, Ford and the others introduced nine solar-related bills, of which eight have either been passed or were included in the National Energy Act, now in conference between the House and Senate.

The new legislation was described by Congressman Ford as a comprehensive package of bills to promote the use of renewable energy equipment by homeowners, small business, agriculture and the federal government. It also calls for more extensive study of new energy forms and for expanded solar loan programs.

A key part of the package would be the establishment of a Solar Energy Bank, with a $5 billion revolving fund to provide long-term, low-interest loans for the purchase and installation of solar energy systems in commercial and residential buildings.

In addition, the Small Business Administration would be authorized to make loans to assist any small business in financing the purchase, installation, marketing or distribution of solar energy equipment, or other renewable energy systems such as those based on hydraulics, wind or geothermal energy.

"The Solar Coalition is working toward the day when we can eliminate our dependence on petroleum as a major energy source," Ford said. "This also will mean the end of our dependence on other nations for a sizeable share of our energy needs."

Congressman Ford noted that the coalition efforts have been endorsed by a varied group of organizations, including conservation groups, labor unions, business organizations and consumer groups.

PCHA board approves employee salary change

By an unanimous vote, the Peoples Community Hospital Authority's (PCHA) Board of Directors has authorized a salary adjustment for all salaried employees of its five hospitals — Annapolis in Wayne, Beyer Memorial in Ypsilanti, Heritage in Taylor, Outer Drive in Lincoln Park and Seaway in Trenton.

Effective the first pay period in May, the employees will receive a six percent increase. An additional one percent will be granted in the first pay period of July.

According to John J. Freysinger, PCHA executive director, the anniversary date for salaried employees' adjustments is being moved to July 1 because "hospitals in Michigan have negotiated a contract with Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan which calls for the establishment of budgets and provides for incentives for cost control, planned on a fiscal year basis."

He said that it was thus considered desirable to adjust the anniversary date for salary improvements to coincide with the same fiscal year.

In other business, the board approved the appointment of Dennis Dishong of Detroit to the position of administrator of the PCHA Seaway Hospital in Trenton. Dishong is currently the administrator of the Kirwood Hospital in Detroit.

He replaces Lawrence T. Riesser who was named to the administrator's position at the Annapolis Hospital in Wayne.

Frederick J. Barton, a former administrative assistant at the PCHA Central Office in Wayne, and currently president of the Pontiac General Hospital in Pontiac, was named to the newly created position of director of planning-service programs. Both Dishong and Barton are expected to begin at PCHA within six to eight weeks.

For the first time in the 33-year history of the PCHA, a board member has been named to an emeritus position. Russell V. White, who served on the Board of Directors for 31 years, was recognized in a board resolution applauding his remarkable tenure, which stands as a record for service on the board.

In ceremonies held last week, White was presented with a plaque from the PCHA, which spelled out his many contributions throughout the years.

TODAY'S Real Estate

by M. Phyllis Crabtree

Top rental property will be located near beaches, lakes, rivers, or ski areas. Besides location, however, it is important that the property be well-maintained. Families looking for a cottage to rent will find run-down property. Therefore, upkeep will pay off. Generally, the entire vacation home will be rented to a family. In some cases, individual bedrooms can be rented out separately. To do this, though, each bedroom should have its own bathroom, and possibly its own entrance. To rent out property you should retain a local real estate professional.

By whatever standards you judge "location" — your real estate agent will help you find the home that answers your needs. CENTURY 21 COMMUNITY REALTORS, 10675 Belleville Road, Belleville is the one to call. Convenience to schools, church or transportation — the attractiveness of the neighborhood or a good address, we have it. Visit our office today or call 697-2121.

For beleaguered seniors

Senate panel approves new tax relief

The Senate Finance Committee today approved three bills to provide Michigan senior citizens with an additional $70 million in property tax relief a year, according to the committee chairman, State Sen. Patrick H. McCollough, a Dearborn Democrat.

One of the bills approved by the committee, SB 1387, sponsored by McCollough, exempts seniors with household incomes lower than $10,000 from all property taxes. The state would reimburse local governments for the cost of the exemption.

Another proposal the committee approved, SB 270, increases property tax relief for elderly renters making less than $13,000 and also provides additional relief to senior homeowners earning between $10,000 and $13,000. This legislation was sponsored by Sen. Jack Faxon of Detroit.

Under the third bill passed, SB 101, the eligible age for claiming senior citizens' homestead property tax credit would be lowered from 65 to 62. Senate Majority Leader William Faust (D-Westland) sponsored this proposal. The age limit for claiming the property tax exemption under SB 1387 also is 62.

"Currently, many of our older senior citizens experience great difficulty in paying property taxes and then experience another inconvenience by waiting for the tax credit to be returned," McCollough said. "I am confident that these proposals will greatly reduce these problems and create a more efficient and fair property tax system for Michigan."

"In addition, with the pre-1978 state equalized valuation of property in Michigan estimated to be $1 billion higher than set forth in the governor's budget, school aid costs to the state will be reduced by more than $20 million at the expense of local taxpayers who will be paying significantly more," McCollough said. "I'm interested in seeing this savings to the state passed to those property taxpayers in most need of relief."

"Enactment of this legislation is needed to offset the escalating property taxes which have so severely burdened the senior citizens of this state," McCollough added. "I urge my colleagues in the Michigan Senate to give prompt approval of these three bills."

Faust measure would eliminate auto, motorcycle insurance woes

A measure that would eliminate discrimination in automobile and motorcycle insurance rates no later than Sept. 30 has been introduced by State Sen. William Faust (D-13th District).

Faust, who is serving his second year as Senate Majority Leader, said the proposed legislation would benefit thousands of Michigan residents who have been forced to pay exorbitant insurance rates because of arbitrary factors.

"This year the Michigan Legislature is taking major steps to assure each and every resident that they will be able to purchase essential insurance for their homes, their automobiles and their businesses," Faust said. "Likewise, the legislature must assure those residents that the insurance rates they are charged will not be discriminatory."

Faust's proposal would prohibit insurance companies from charging different rates for the same coverage because of sex, marital status, age, residence, location of risk, handicap or lawful occupation.

However, an insurance company could charge different rates for a classification group if the rate differential is directly related to actual losses experienced by all persons insured in that group. Companies also could allow for anticipated losses in the case of new coverage.

The measure would apply to all automobile and motorcycle insurance including personal protection insurance, property protection insurance and residual liability insurance.

"My proposal will not affect the business of insuring motorists in this state," Faust explained. "However, it will prevent insurance companies from lining their coffers through higher rates than the statistics call for."

Faust said he expects the measure to be favorably received by his colleagues in the Senate.

Veterans should tell families where important papers are

The need for veterans to tell their families where important veterans' documents are kept cannot be over-emphasized, according to Veterans Administration officials.

Safeguarding discharge papers, marriage certificates or child custody evidence from fire, theft or loss could be one of the most important legacies a veteran can leave his survivors, VA officials have found. Among documents that should be protected and filed with family papers are government and commercial life insurance policies, any VA correspondence with identifying claim numbers, Social Security numbers, wills and, where applicable, naturalization papers. Families also should be aware of possible survivor benefits. These include VA pensions, dependency and indemnity compensation for service-connected death, burial benefits and interment in a national cemetery.

A few minutes spent by the veteran organizing documents and informing his family can do much to avoid anguish during times of emotional stress.

Veterans should alert their families that information and assistance concerning benefits are available at the nearest VA regional office. Assistance also is available through veterans service organizations.

Is state's only poisonous snake on the rise?

Is Michigan's only poisonous snake increasing in numbers in this state?

Dan Hager, a freelance writer from Lansing, raises that question in the current issue of Michigan Out-of-Doors, the monthly magazine published by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Pointing out that the massasauga rattlesnake appeared more active than usual in Michigan last year, Hager noted that a number of the rattlers were found in a gravel pit near Grand Rapids, "several disconcerting situations" in involving these snakes cropped up in Jackson County and a minor invasion of massasaugas took place at Wurtsmith Air Force Base near Oscoda.

But despite this apparent increase in sightings of rattlesnakes, Hager doubts that the population of these venomous reptiles is on the rise. He attributes the relatively frequent sighting reports to a couple of other factors—land development and drought.

"When swampland is bulldozed or filled in or drained," Hager writes, "the snakes' living patterns are disrupted and they may go far afield in attempts to establish new routes and feeding areas and soon—kind of like being victims of cultural shock, like country cousins from the boondocks suddenly having to make it in the streets of Detroit."

"Another factor, especially last summer, may be drought. In the typical midyear heat, the fringes of the swamp dry up, so the massasaugas move elsewhere. Last year, with water tables in many areas of Michigan at record low levels, some swamps dried out completely and other usually moist locations also disappeared. So, many of the snakes may have been forced into ranging into new areas in the search for hospitable lodgings."

Most observers believe the massasauga population actually is decreasing instead of rising. Clarence Owens, a biology teacher at Jackson Parkside High School who keeps a large snake collection there is quoted as saying: "I'm sure the massasauga population still is going down, although that's just an intelligent guess. Nobody knows for certain, of course, because the snake hasn't been studied that much."

Although no healthy adult is known to have suffered a fatal bite from a rattlesnake in Michigan, Hager emphasizes that "the massasauga menace would be neither overstated nor understated." He cites a case involving a bite by a pygmy rattlesnake, a smaller northern cousin of the massasauga.

"The victim was nicked on the finger by a nine-inch youngster, a bite seemingly so minor that treatment was deferred at first," Hager writes. "Swelling affected the entire arm and extended into the body, with discoloration. The finger turned black. One day after the bite, the victim was dizzy and faint. The swelling finally dissipated about 10 days after the bite, but full mobility of the finger still hadn't returned after a year and a half."

...In numbers, that is...

'Swashbuckling' Poldark returns to Channel 56

The swashbuckling adventure series, "Poldark II," returns to "Maserpiece Theatre" for an all-new season starting June 4 at 9 p.m. on Channel 56.

Robin Ellis, dubbed "the sexiest man on telly" by the English press, will continue as the darkly handsome Poldark, an 18th century rebel with many causes.

This second series, based on four novels by contemporary author Winston Graham, picks up where "Poldark I" left off. Tilting triumphantly at the windmills of inequality, injustice and economic inequity in a manner that combines the best of Indiana Jones, Robin Hood and other reformers, Ross Poldark loses and wins love, fortunes and leadership status.

Corruption is rife—men gamble for money and other men's lives, and love is requited and unrequited, earned and forfeited. The story spans many years of turbulence, poverty and bawdiness—years whose turbulence is evenly matched in the stormy drama in the life of Poldark.

The series was filmed largely in Cornwall, England, where authentic 18th century locations were carefully scouted. "Poldark II" also features the return of Angharad Rees and Jill Townsend as the women in Poldark's life.

One of Beethoven's music teachers once remarked that he "would never do anything properly."

Lemontree to host U.S. racquetball championship

The 1978 U.S. Racquetball Association championships will be held June 17-24 at the new Sports Illustrated Court Club-Lemontree in Belleville.

It will be the first time the national event has been held in the Midwest. All previous championships were either in San Diego or Las Vegas.

More than 800 entries are expected for the 14 brackets of amateur men's and women's competition and approximately 80 pro entries are expected.

A total of $30,000 in prize money will be at stake, double last year's amount. First prizes will be $6,000 for men, $3,000 for women. It will be the richest tournament in racquetball history.

Sponsors of the championship tournament are Colgate-Palmolive Co., Seacore Sporting Goods Co. and Leach Industries.

Because racquetball is such a young sport this will be only the fourth national pro-amateur championship. In the first three championships, only $15,000 in prize money was offered compared to this year's $30,000. But in the interval racquetball has grown from fewer than 1 million players to over 6 million.

In addition to cash prizes, a first annual Racquetball Sportsman of the Year award will be presented by Sports Illustrated Court Clubs.

Leading pro contenders include: Marty Hogan, 20, leading winner on the pro tour circuit, often compared to tennis' Jimmy Connors. His serve has been clocked at 140 miles per hour, faster than any tennis serve.

Davey Bledsoe, 28, defending champion, started out strong this year, has slumped in recent months.

Charlie Brumfield, at 30 almost the oldest of the tournament pros. Five times national champion.

Peggy Steding, a 42-year-old grandmother, four times national champion and number one in all-time money winnings.

Shannon Wright, 21, defending champion, favored again this year.

Janell Mariott, 25-year-old power hitter, coming up strong, won the last meet on this year's tour.

The amateur play will include in addition to open competition, four age-group brackets for men, ranging from over-35 to over-65, and one over-35 bracket for women. Both singles and doubles championships will be decided in each bracket. The over-65 competition is new this year.

Defending champion in the over-55 bracket is Carl Loveday of San Diego. He is a former badminton champion and member of the badminton hall-of-fame who began playing racquetball in 1936, the year the sport was invented, and has been playing it exclusively since 1954. A former businessman, he is now a teaching pro whose students are tournament pros and top-ranking amateurs.

The tournament host, Sports Illustrated Court Clubs, will be the nation's largest racquetball organization by the time the tournament opens. The new 12-court Lemontree club, in Detroit's western suburbs, will be the chain's 10th and gives it a total of 122 courts. Time, Inc., the publishing giant, has a minority stock interest in the chain, which has a goal of having 125 racquetball clubs open by 1981.

Slated for September

16-day tour visits historic Spain

Residents of the circulation area of Associated Newspapers are urged to take advantage of the 16-day tour it will sponsor to historic Spain beginning next Sept. 16.

Under the direction of Gene Wertz, ANP circulation director, the tour will visit such legendary spots as Madrid, Seville, Torremolinos, Granada, Alicante, Palma de Mallorca and Valencia.

Cost of the tour is $1,295 per person based on double occupancy and $130 extra for single supplement. For further information, call Wertz at 729-4000 during the day or 561-4191 in the evenings.

The itinerary for the tour to Spain follows:

Sept. 16 — Saturday: Departure from Detroit via TWA Airlines.

Sept. 17-Sunday: Arrival in Madrid in the morning. Meeting, assistance and transfer by private motorcoach to hotel. Upon arrival, check-in for lunch, dinner and accommodation at Hotel Florida Norte. Afternoon city sightseeing by motorcoach of Panoramic Madrid. This tour starts by observing the interesting contrast that Madrid offers its visitors to the University City, with its modern facilities and colleges, surrounded by the splendid park of the West, the "Casa de Campo" where a refreshment will be offered in the Moorish Quarter, with its typical atmosphere of the mesones and the buildings of the old Madrid, the elegant squares of Puerta del Sol, Neptuno, Cibeles, Alcalá's Gate, and the memorial park of Retiro. Its modern buildings, gardens and large avenues, and Santiago Bernabeu Stadium, one of the largest in Europe, will also be visited.

Sept. 18- Monday: Madrid: Continental breakfast, dinner and accommodation at the hotel. Morning city sightseeing by motorcoach of "Artistic Madrid". The visit starts with a drive through the most important streets in town, Mayor St. Puerta del Sol, Carrera de San Jeronimo, Parlament Square and Neptuno in order to arrive at the Prado Museum, one of the most important art galleries in the world, where the artistic richness of the different epochs can be admired. The second part of the visit will take place at the Royal Palace, beautiful example of the XVIII Century architecture, and ancient residence of the Spanish kings, where a visit will be paid to its world famous tapestry and ceramic collection. Afternoon at leisure to shop for seude, leathersgoods and lace mantillas, or wander amid the pleasure of El Retiro Park.

Sept. 19- Tuesday: Madrid: Continental breakfast and check-out from the hotel. Departure from Madrid, passing through Aranjuez, and arriving at Bailen for lunch. Then, on to Cordoba to see the famous mosque. Arrive in Seville, check-in for dinner and accommodation at Hotel Macarena of Nuevo Lar.

Sept. 22- Friday: Torremolinos: Continental breakfast, dinner and accommodation at the hotel. Today, take your pick. Relax by the pool or on the beach, sip a cool drink at a little cafe, shop in chic cosmopolitan boutiques or bargain at the local markets. This evening "Torremolinos by Night", one drink is included and a Flamenco Show at one of the best night clubs in town is on the agenda.

Sept. 24-Sunday: Granada: Continental breakfast, dinner and accommodation at hotel. Morning city sightseeing. Granada, the splendid city that was once the heart of Moorish Spain. Our tour is highlighted by a visit to the Alhambra, a 13th Century Palace adorned with scalloped arches, arabesque gardens and colorful fountain-graced courtyards. Its super vantage point affords breathtaking views of the Albaicin old Arab quarter- and Sacromonte (Sacred Mountain, where gypsy cavedweller live). Afternoon devoted to leisure activities.

Sept. 26- Tuesday: Alicante: Continental breakfast and check out from the hotel. Brief city tour of Alicante. Driving along the Costa Blanca and Costa del Azahar, passing by Benidorm, important summer resort, and Gandia, ancient Moorish city. In the afternoon, arrive in Valencia with a brief city tour. Upon arrival, check in for dinner and accommodation at Hotel Astoria Palace. Sept. 27- Wednesday: Valencia: Continental breakfast and checkout from hotel. Proceed to airport by motorcoach. Departure by plane for Palma de Mallorca. On arrival, proceed by motorcoach to hotel. Upon arrival, checkin for dinner and accommodation at Hotel Melia Mallorca. Sept. 28- Thursday: Palma de Mallorca: Continental breakfast, dinner and accommodation at hotel. Day at leisure, enjoy the beach.

Sept. 30- Saturday: Palma de Mallorca: Continental breakfast, dinner accommodation at hotel. Full day excursion to Manacor and Caves of Drach. This excursion begins by crossing the flat plains of Palma, through fertile orchards and rows of windmills and going up to Xorricó and the villages of Algaida, Montuiri, Villafraanca and Manacor. Arrive at the famous Caves of Drach (Dragon), a marvellous underground of nature, where, beside the Lake Lago Martel, an exclusive concert is given followed by a trip across the serene water in a launch.

Oct. 1- Sunday: Palma de Mallorca: Continental breakfast at hotel and checkout. Assistance and transfer by private motorcoach to airport. Departure by plane for Madrid. Arrival in Madrid and departure for Detroit via TWA Airlines.

Homemaker's banquet held; 'Fun in Armenia' is theme

The Michigan Association of Extension Homemakers (MAEH) of Wayne County held its annual Homemaker's Banquet May 16 at Park Place in Dearborn with 175 women attending.

Featured speaker was Wayne County Extension Director Donald Juchartz whose topic was the changes in family life through the years.

Another guest speaker was Simon Javieson who talked about Armenian culture, traditions, history and crafts of his country which followed the evening theme "Kef" meaning "fun in Armenia."

The featured entertainer, "Aida", performed an exotic Middle Eastern dance routine for the group.

Other notables attending were Mrs. L. Raymond Nelson, Bi-County president of Oakland County; Mrs. W. Crawford, 2nd vice-president of Bi-County; Kathy Bufton, home economist, and Vera Semetko, program assistant, who were introduced by Mrs. George Martin, MAEH president. The program was planned by co-chairmen, Mrs. John Kenosian and Mrs. Anthony Hoffman of Romulus.

The two Emma DuBord scholarships of $300 each, were presented to Carlene Evans and Barbara Mazzo, and a 25-year pin awarded to Mrs. Cyril Atkinson.

Prizes in the cultural arts exhibit went to June Brown for natural material craft; Eleanor Perry for macrame; Goldie Hoffman for metalcraft; Virginia Benoit for stitchery; Mrs. John Kenosian for needlecraft painting, and Ellen Jarsulic for other crafts.

The six winners of Donna Lee Scholarship which cover attendance at College Week for Women at Michigan State University were Veronica Szabo of Belleville; Julie Woodard, Diane Gadille, Dolores Alfen, Ann Budzisz and Diane Schmidt.

After dinner activities also included a raffle with prizes donated by all the groups. A special award was presented to the MAEH treasurer, Mrs. Donald Shipe, for her outstanding services to the organization.

The dinner party climaxed a year of programs which included two mystery trips and monthly lessons on both educational and cultural themes. Groups attaining their goals received bell awards

Kim Studer winner of BPW scholarship

MISS STUDER

The Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) has, since 1958, awarded a scholarship to a graduating Belleville High School senior. Twenty-two years ago the gift was $100 but the amount has gradually increased and has now reached $300.

This year's recipient, Kim Studer, has attended Belleville Schools all her life. She has been accepted by Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti for the fall term and plans to major in musical drama or elementary education.

Miss Studer has been a participant in four Belleville musical productions: West Side Story, Tom Sawyer, My Fair Lady and The Wizard of Oz. She is a member of both the Concert Choir and Woman's Chorus at BHS. Her hobbies include oil painting, music, racquetball and reading.

The daughter of Mrs. Trudy Studer, the scholarship winner has one brother and one sister, both older than she. They also completed their schooling in Belleville. Her mother, a widow, is employed as a manager and teacher by the Preston Beauty Academy of Ann Arbor.

The criteria for the BPW scholarship is good character, ambition toward furthering one's education, a desirable academic average and financial need. The recipient is selected with the excellent cooperation of Ed Steinman, supervisor of guidance at Belleville High School.

One of the objectives of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., is to extend opportunities to young women, through education, and along lines of industrial, scientific and vocational activities.

At YWCA

Job Finders Day planned

The Western Wayne County YWCA will be sponsoring a Job Finders Day Thursday, June 8. The program, which will be held at the YWCA, 28279 Michigan Ave., Inkster, will focus on the woman who has a need for a job, yet might be limited by lack of skills or direction in which to turn. There will be no frills, no fancy lunches—just basic, valuable, concise information on how to obtain a job. A bag lunch may be brought.

The program will begin with registration at 9 a.m. and will continue through 3 p.m. The fee for the day is $3.

Representatives from two areas of Civil Service as well as several large companies who have women in varied-level positions will be present for vital information about their respective companies; the benefits, salary scales and qualifications needed to apply for positions as a woman re-entering the job market.

R. M. Elliot will represent State Civil Service and Victoria Ribbron will represent Wayne County Civil Service. The following companies will be represented: City National Bank, Joanne Froelich; Detroit Edison Company, Jim Vary; Michigan-Wisconsin Pipe Line, Echo Wilson; and Automobile Club of Michigan, Tommie Robbins. The afternoon sessions will offer a choice of two out of four workshops. The following workshops will be held: "Effective Interviews" by Gail Brooks, Employment Manager, University of Detroit; "Make That First Good Impression With Application Forms" by Albert Martin, Ford Motor Company; "How to be an Assertive Job Seeker" by Leslie Sabbath, Assistant Director of Counseling, University of Michigan, Dearborn Campus, and "Identifying Your Skills" by Douglas Hoxeng, Counseling Staff, University of Michigan, Dearborn Campus.

Pre-registration is requested.

For further information, please call Audrey Wasserman, YWCA, at 561-4110.

Half century marked

The golden anniversary of the Romulus Literary Club was observed when 17 former members returned from far and wide for a reunion luncheon with current clubsters. Held at the Ramada Inn of Romulus, the party was emceed by Daisie Clark who also made the introductions. Club president Joanne Block (at left) extended the official welcome while Stella Bunnell, club treasurer, (far right), gave the invocation. Songs of 1928 were presented by Margaret Bird, Esther Ellis and Jean Savage with accompaniment by Muriel Boelter. Helen Tobacco read the club history. Among those welcomed back was Doris Lindemann (center) from Florida who is spending the summer at her home in Belleville. Other officers giving her a hand were Mary Oakley, vice-president and Judy White, secretary (to Mrs. Lindemann's left and right). Other former members at the celebration were Ada Allen, Nan Bird, Helen Corzine, Ruth Frank, Elaine Hawker, Vera Maye Hudgins, Hazel Kouba and Marie Krebs. Still others were Mary Lou Larson, Mary Laverack, Inez Liggett, Fay Maretko, Kathryn Seestedt, Ruth Smith, Helen Trudgeon and Onnolee Wall.

Miss Ostrowski earns RN degree

A former Belleville resident, Gail Marie Ostrowski, was awarded her registered nurse degree on May 10 when she graduated with a 3.85 grade point average from St. Petersburg Junior College in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Miss Ostrowski, 23, is the daughter of George L. and Elsie E. Ostrowski of 4426 Lake Crest Dr., Belleville.

A 1972 graduate of Belleville High School, where she was a member of the Honor Society, Miss Ostrowski attended the Ann Arbor Practical Nursing School where she earned highest honors recognition.

On moving to Clearwater, Fla., she began work as a P.N. at Morton F. Plant Hospital where she attended the surgical technical program and where she is currently working as a surgical nurse.

MISS OSTROWSKI

Quotes worth quoting...

"Often the difference between a successful marriage and a mediocre one consists of leaving about three or four things a day unsaid."

Harlan Miller said it.

Pamela Maki named U.S. assistant attorney

On April 17, Pamela Phillips Maki was sworn in as an assistant United States attorney for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. The oath of office was administered by U.S. District Court Judge John P. Fullam from the Eastern District of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia by whom Mrs. Maki had been employed for the past 19 months as a federal law clerk.

The U.S. attorney's office which Mrs. Maki has joined is located in Philadelphia and has 42 assistant U.S. attorneys. Mrs. Maki has been assigned to the Criminal Division of the office where she will prosecute individuals charged with violations of federal law.

Mrs. Maki is an alumna of the Villanova University School of Law in Villanova, Pa. where she graduated with honors in 1976. She earned her bachelor of arts degree from Clark University in Worcester, Mass. where she graduated with high honors in 1973, with majors in economics and philosophy.

A Belleville High School graduate, she is the daughter of Dale and Frances Phillips of 44700 Kozma Rd., Belleville.

Bel-Corse retains officers

The Bel-Corse Group of the Wayne County Extension Service met at the home of Mrs. George Robson of Tyler Road on May 16 with 12 members present.

Following a dessert luncheon a business meeting was held with election of officers. The present officers, Elsie Ostrowski, chairman; and Mildred Vaughn, secretary-treasurer, were retained for the ensuing year.

In the evening the same group attended the Home Makers' Banquet in Dearborn. Two members of the Bel-Corse Group, Veronica Szabo and Diane Schmidt, won scholarships to "College Week for Women" to be held in Lansing in June.

MISS BYRNE

MISS FARRUGIA

Belleville couples' engagements told

BYRNE-NEWBORN

FARRUGIA-WOODY

An August 12 wedding at St. Stephen's Catholic Church in New Boston is being planned by Maria Byrne and Robert Charles Newborn, both of Belleville.

The young couple's engagement is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Byrne of 19780 Clark Rd., Belleville, parents of the bride-elect who graduated from Belleville High School in 1977. Currently a student at Virginia Farrell Beauty School in Wayne, Miss Byrne expects to graduate in July.

Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Newborn of 19610 Clark Rd., Belleville, is a 1977 alumnus of Belleville High School now working at L & W Engineering in Belleville.

The night of her senior prom will be especially memorable to Victoria Ann Farrugia of Belleville since it was the time she accepted a diamond ring and agreed to become the future bride of David Brian Woody.

The engagement of the young couple, who have not as yet set a wedding date, is made by Mr. and Mrs. Benny Farrugia of Belle Villa Boulevard, Belleville, parents of the bride-elect. A senior at Belleville High School, she is employed at the Red Apple Restaurant in Belleville.

A 1977 graduate of Belleville High School, the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Woody of 184 Carmel, Belleville. He is employed at Central Outlet Company of Belleville and also works parttime as a carpenter.

Anniversary forms available

For those marking wedding anniversaries with celebrations and parties, we have special anniversary forms to fill out. The questionnaires include all the pertinent information needed for putting a story together.

If you are planning to celebrate an anniversary and would like your friends to read about it in The Belleville Enterprise of The Romulus Roman, simply stop by our office at 116 Fourth St., Belleville, or telephone the Suburban Living Editor, Lee Smith, at 697-9191 to have a form mailed out.

Choose flowers for summer-long color

Spring is sprung! Planting time is here. Why not try some instant color. Consider the riot of color you can have with annual bedding plants around shrubs, in beds alone, and even under trees. Consider too, the selected use of hanging baskets or porch and patio containers of annuals. After a summer-long of beautiful flowering annuals you will be pleased with yourself.

Often overlooked is the extra touch that annual bedding plants give to an otherwise uninteresting blob of green, or how much they add to even the most attractive landscape.

An infinite variety of colors and sizes can be had to brighten the landscape. For oranges and yellows the marigold excels. Fast growing and productive in flowers, they range from a few inches to three feet in height. A real charmer is Primrose Lady marigold, with 4-inch, primrose yellow, mum-like flowers on bushy, 18 inch plants with heavy, dark, lustrous foliage. This one is All-America Selection Bronze Medal winner for 1977. Another All-American Selection about the same size with large, double, golden yellow blooms is Marigold Yellow Galore.

For whites, pinks and reds, geraniums are one of the finest. The seed geraniums excel in vigor and bloom. Try the 1977 All-America Selection seed geranium "Showgirl" for a vivid pink. Showgirl is a vigorous grower, with a multitude of flowers from June until frost. Petunias come in a range from deepest purple (almost black) through blue, red, pink, white and mixtures of all these colors, in both single and double flowers. They love the sun. They lack the true sky-blue colors as yet. Another fine All-America Selection is Petunia "Blushing Maid". It is a prolific producer of double, rose-like blooms of pale pink, shading to darker pink in the centers.

Ageratum and Alyssum have blues, whites and purples. They hug the ground, being only a few inches tall, and plants are carpeted with blooms, in many cases completely hiding the foliage.

The selection of annuals is endless, in all colors of the rainbow. Few plants give us so much color for so long a period of time with so little care.

Some care in selection is needed when planting annuals in shady locations. Those best in shade are Coleus, grown for the variegated, multicolored foliage rather than flowers; Lobelia, one of the true blue flowers, on small, bushy plants; Impatiens, with pink, salmon or red flowers; Vinca, with heavy shiny foliage and starlike, white or pink flowers; Begonias, the fibrous rooted variety which are bushy and covered with a mass of small flowers, or Tuberous, with large, showy flowers in a wide variety of colors and Basil, grown for its dark purple foliage.

Send us your bridal information

Want to share that "special day" with those who are unable to be present in person for your wedding ceremony? We'll write the details of your wedding in story form for you — and at no charge — if you'll simply follow a few guidelines.

The Belleville Enterprise and The Romulus Roman offer bridal questionnaires for you to fill out as well as engagement forms for announcing the "start of it all." These forms include all the pertinent questions involved with your marriage or betrothal.

Forms may be picked up at our office, 116 Fourth St., Belleville, (we're in the old Township Hall, side entrance) anytime during the week between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

We will also mail forms if a telephone request is made. Call Lee Smith, Suburban Living Editor, at 697-9191.

Give a cheese 'n wine tasting party

Plan a cheese and wine tasting party. Cheese and wine get-togethers allow guests to become familiar with a variety of wines and cheese and to have fun doing it. The worlds of cheeses and wines are just waiting to be explored and enjoyed by everyone. Cheese and wine tasting can take on any type of entertaining since it's easy to organize, requires no outlandish equipment (just one wine glass per guest), no cooking and the simplest planning.

To begin, choose four or five cheeses, selecting those that offer a variety of flavors from mild to sharp and a blend of textures from creamy smooth to firm, taking into consideration also the shape and color contrasts available. Then select an equal number of wines, following a simple rule for selection: the milder the cheese, the more mellow the wine; and the sharper flavored the cheese, the more robust the wine. Allow 1/2 pound of cheese and 1/2 bottle of wine per guest.

Cheeses should be served at room temperature if you're to enjoy their true flavors. Remove full-flavored cheese from the refrigerator an hour before serving. Milder cheese can be taken out one half hour in advance. Cut cheese into bite-sized pieces just before serving or arrange wedges or rounds of cheese with cheese knives on a showy platter for a more casual, do-it-yourself approach.

Generally appetizer wines, white wines, rose' and sparkling wines should be chilled about three hours in the refrigerator before serving. Red wines are best at room temperature and should be opened an hour before serving to give them a chance to breathe. Provide a pitcher of water for rinsing out glasses between tastings along with a container into which the used water and unwanted wine can be discarded.

When tasting, begin with the mild cheeses and mellow wines and then move on to the sharper cheeses and more robust wines. Cubes of French bread or an assortment of crackers should be served to eat between tastings. This is done to clear one flavor away before tasting another combination.

Family says 'farewell' to USAF enlistee

By Mrs. Joseph Spring

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKelvey of Bemis Road entertained members of their family from Flushing, Romulus and Belleville on May 21. The occasion was a farewell party for their son, Ronald, who left May 24 for Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio, Texas. Ronald will begin his 4-year stint with the U.S. Air Force.

After having been a surgical patient at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn for several days, Mrs. Carl (Erma) Ruff is now convalescing at her home on East Huron River Drive.

On May 19, Phyllis Seaman of Savage Road, Betty Gress of West Huron River Drive and Dorothy Kellas of Margery Street attended the annual banquet and business meeting of Ypsilanti Chapter, DAR, held at Washtenaw Country Club in Ypsilanti. Mrs. Seaman was chosen a delegate to the state convention to be held at Southfield in September.

Marsh and Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Lodge who prepared the meal.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Fabin Jr. and daughter, Jennie, of Romulus attended the K.F.O.C. International Midwest Division Meeting with headquarters at the Holiday Inn of Hannibal, Mo.

Cum laude honors go to Nan Jacobs

Among the 32 students receiving degrees from Monroe County Community College's nursing program this spring was Ethel Nanette Jacobs, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jacobs of 22203 Fenster, Belleville.

Miss Jacobs earned an associate of applied science degree April 21 during ceremonies held at St. Mary's Academy in Monroe. Graduating cum laude, she later took part in a capping and pinning ceremony at the college on May 10.

A 1976 graduate of Belleville High School, Miss Jacobs attended classes which led to her RN degree on a Michigan Competitive Scholarship. Her training in various medical categories took place at Memorial Hospital Corporation in Monroe, Seaway Hospital in Trenton, Riverside Osteopathic Hospital, Wyandotte General and Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn. She also worked parttime and summers at the Gilbert Residence in Ypsilanti.

Starting on June 26, the new registered nurse will be employed at Appalachian Regional Hospital in South Williamson, Ky.

MISS JACOBS

William Graham of Liberty Street was a special guest of his daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stabnau of South Biggs Street, at a dinner on May 21 in celebration of his 80th birthday. Included in the 20 members of his family who were present was his wife Mary.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Belleville of Dewitt Street have received word of the birth of their second grandchild, an 8-pound baby boy on April 28, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hawk of Pacific City, Ore. The young man, whose mother is the former Pacita Belleville, has been named Robert Lealand Hawk. He has a sister, Heather, and his paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lealand Hawk of Pilot Rock, Ore.

Mrs. Muriel Smith of Liberty Street and her granddaughter, Karen Akans of Royal Oak, returned home last Thursday after having spent the past 10 days with Mrs. Smith's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Marshall and daughter, Kathie, at Roxbury, Conn.

Daniel F. Ross of Falls Church, Va. was a recent weekend guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Ross of Quirk Road, and his grandmother, Mrs. D. W. Ross of Liberty Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Potts of Wabash Street returned home last Tuesday from Pleasanton, Calif. where they had spent three weeks with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Allen and family. While there they visited San Francisco, Lake Tahoe, Sea World and Reno, Nev.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dolph of Edgar Street were among members of the Waters family who attended a get-together and dinner at the home of Mrs. Dolph's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Butler of Milan, on May 20. Others present besides the two sisters were their three brothers and their wives, Dillon Waters and Neil Waters of Ann Arbor and Don Waters of Huntington Woods. The group also celebrated Mrs. Dolph's birthday.

Mrs. Dorothy Kellas of Margery Street attended the annual banquet of the Strand-Weeks Club on May 21 at the clubhouse of the Childs Lake Estates in Milford. Hosts for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Dean

It's a boy for Annises

It's a boy! That's the news being announced far and wide by Michael and Diane Annis of 44710 Lakecrest Dr., Belleville.

Their first child, the new heir has been titled, "Brian Michael." Arriving at 2:30 p.m. May 6 at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn, the infant weighed 9 lbs. - 2 ozs. and measured 21 inches.

Other members of his family are his grandparents, Robert and Rosemary Wallman of Belleville and Mary Lubberg of Springfield, Ohio, and his proud great-grandmother, Mrs. Ella Wallman of Belleville.

psst... Here're some hints

COMPILED BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

So — you're all ready to use that special chocolate cake recipe you coaxed out of the town's best baker. And what happens? You don't have the sour milk which it calls for.

No problem! Simply add one tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice to one cup sweet milk or cream. Let it stand for a few minutes before using. (Personal note: I find that using warm milk starts the souring action much more quickly.)

You're in the midst of making a grated carrot salad or a crunchy apple salad and you decide to toss in a few raisins. But — you find them hard to the touch or stuck together and wonder whether or not they can still be used.

First off, if you're storing them in the 'fridge as you should, you WILL find them a bit hard. Don't despair and NEVER toss them out. A simple bath in hot, hot water for about five minutes will restore them to their original plumpness. Drain thoroughly in a sieve or strainer before using.

To cut up dates or other sticky fruits (prunes, dried apricots, etc.), dip your kitchen shears in warm water every so often.

And if you don't own a pair of kitchen shears, make them one of your earliest purchases next time you shop. They are great for not only the above but for snipping fresh parsley, cutting up a spit-cooked chicken, halving or quartering big marshmallows, cutting up maraschino cherries, "slicing" pizza, etc.

If you don't care to eat the skin of a tomato when adding it to a tossed salad or preparing it to hold a salad, here is the best way to remove the skin. Simply place in boiling water for one minute and the skin will slip off easily.

The same method may be used for peeling peaches except you might keep the fruit submerged for about two minutes.

DID YOU KNOW THAT: there are 27 calories in one Kraft Fudgie? Twenty-six in a Hershey Kiss? Eleven in one jelly bean? Four in one chocolate-covered raisin? Twenty-three in one regular-sized marshmallow? Nine in one malted milk ball? (Isn't this a rotten thing to bring up?) Oh yes, and there are 283 calories in one Hershey Mr. Goodbar, the 1-8-10 oz. size.

Did you know that the custom of serving appetizers seems to have started in Ancient Greece and Rome? In the days of their fabulous feasts, the Romans munched on chicory, endive or celery to excite hunger.

The dictionary defines "appetizer" as small portions of food or drink served before the first course of a meal.

European nations later picked up the custom and elaborated on it. They introduced us to the elegance of Russian caviar, French hors d'oeuvres, Italian antipasto and Scandinavian smorgasbord. In due time we added some innovations of our own such as the cheese ball, dips and dunks, cereal munchies, raw vegetables, etc.

A hanging basket near a sunny window is just what the doctor ordered for the grape ivy (Cissus rhombifolia).

This fast growing vine has brown, hairy stems with coiling tendrils and three-part, glossy green leaves with brown veins and hairy undersides. Michigan State University horticulturists suggest potting the grape ivy in a standard houseplant potting mix. Water when the soil surface dries to keep the soil around the roots moderately moist at all times. Be careful not to overwater — this will cause the leaves to yellow.

The grape ivy grows best in the light near a sunny window, but it will survive in the light needed to cast a faint shadow. In low light, new leaves will be smaller than leaves produced under bright light conditions. Pinch the growing tips to encourage branching.

Typical home temperatures — 70-80 degrees during the day and 55-60 degrees at night — are ideal.

This native of the West Indies and North and South America is rarely bothered by insects. Red spider mites may sometimes become a pest, however.

Propagate the grape ivy by stem tip cuttings. The MSU experts note

Van Buren's Tin Lizzie Restaurant

By JOE BENYO

The "Tin Lizzie" is on it's way to becoming one of the areas finest restaurants. The family style dining, under the guiding hand of Mike Russell, is tops.

Located on Belleville Road, just north of I-94, the restaurant was built in 1975, and opened as a fast food operation. It was floundering somewhat when the owner, Nickerson's of Omaha, Nebraska, decided to try and change the concept, and hired Mike Russell, who re-juvenated the business creating a quality restaurant.

Russell, 32, is a good looking man, and as general manager, has a long list of accomplishments behind him to back up his desire to make the "Tin Lizzie", a "reservation only" restaurant.

Mike is assisted by Larry Williams, 32, assistant manager on day operations, and Abdul Yusuph, 32, the assistant manager on night operations.

Also on the staff, are eight cooks and 10 waitresses, as well as a hostess. Each person is cordial, always with a smile on their face...nice to see...

The entire menu is Mike's creation. From chopped sirloin for the light eater, to rack of lamb, scallops provencale, and roast duckling with Cumberland sauce. In addition, there is also a lunch menu available in the lounge to 11 p.m.

Since Russell progressed in his career from waiting tables, to wine steward, to bartender, to chef, and now to general manager, he insists that his waitresses refuse to serve anything not of superior quality, not hot, or the customer feels it not up to standard.

Total customer satisfaction is an absolute necessity according to Russell, and it will be adhered to right down the line.

The fresh food is of highest quality, and all soups, sauces are made from fresh stock. There is no artificial food used. All of it is prepared in the kitchen, and vegetables are not of the canned variety.

Along with the regular menu, there is a lunch buffet for $3.25, all you can eat, with 4-6 entrees, including the salad machine, changed daily, and on Sunday morning, a breakfast buffet with all breakfast type items for $3.50. Sunday from 11:30 a.m.-7:00 p.m. a brunch buffet with all the heavy entrees and the trimmings for only $4.50. All children under 10, pay only half price for the buffets.

The decor of the "Tin Lizzie" would have to be described as unique. Richly done in an old world style, with many fascinating little features to capture the atmosphere. Everywhere you look, something new to catch the eye...

A 1923 Model T (Tin Lizzie) similar to a pickup truck, serves as "The Salad Machine", with an acoustical ceiling to minimize the noise level, yet with heavy wooded beams to accent the theme. Old world style chandeliers (six coach type lanterns with iron axes) in a subdued lighting for a quiet feeling, yet tastefully done.

There are table and chairs of heavy wood with red leather seats and backrests for comfort, covered with cloth table cloths with a small lamp on each table.

The fireplace is done in rich old brick, with smoked, antique vein glass on the walls on both sides. The capacity in the main dining room is 120 persons, with the tables far enough apart, to not be cramped.

There is also a banquet room available that will accommodate 45 people, for meetings, luncheons, and parties. This room is also designed with many of the dining room features, including a fireplace.

The "Salad Machine" which is in the rear bed of the "Tin Lizzie", has lettuce, fresh mushrooms, onion slices, bean sprouts, chi-chi beans, green onions, chopped eggs, macaroni salad, celery, carrots, fresh cauliflower, salad olives, sunflower seeds, bacon bits, mild peppers, croutons, and jello. Dressings include bleu cheese, thousand island, french, italian, and all of these are made at the restaurant. There are assorted crackers, fresh bread, and butter also.

The wine list is complete with four types of Red Bordeaux, five types of Red Burgundy, three types of White Bordeaux, five types of White Burgundy, and other types providing a total selection of 32.

Price ranges from $3.50 for a half bottle of Lambrusco, to $11.50 for a half bottle of Piper Heidsick Champagne which serves two people. A full bottle serving four, ranges from the Lambrusco at $5.00, to again the Piper Heidsick Champagne at $20.50.

The luncheon menu has many sandwich specials from a b-l-t at $1.95 to a club or rail splitter at $2.95, with a selection of eight different items. Seafood chowder, and soup du jour are also available by the cup or bowl.

Luncheon favorites range from soup and all the salad you can eat at $2.50, to a New York strip at $5.95, with eight different items available. Desserts range from strawberry shortcake at $1.25 to hot apple pie ala mode at $1.75.

All dinners include a trip to the "Salad Machine", and a loaf of hot freshly-baked bread. Cocktails are also available in a moderate range and only name brands are served.

"Starters" range from seafood chowder at .95 a cup, to shrimp cocktail at $3.50.

"Standard equipment" ranges from breast of capon oriental at $5.95, to herb-roasted rack of lamb at $9.00.

"The runabout" includes broiled whitefish, jumbo shrimp, scallops provencale, all priced at $6.95, with a "catch of the day" priced daily.

"The grill" includes chopped sirloin at $4.95, to a New York strip steak at $12.00.

"The divers favorite" Alaskan king crab legs are $10.95, and the sweet things (desserts) are same as the luncheon menu.

Special coffees include Dutch, Spanish or Irish at $2.50.

Dinner at the "Tin Lizzie", joined by both Mike and Abdul.....was excellent!

We also observed the lounge that holds some 60 people, and the decor is also automobile oriented with the top 40 tunes on the jukebox in disco style...from the quiet to the loud. The choice is yours...reservations are accepted, but not required (697-6888).

For something unique, and a treat that you deserve...The "Tin Lizzie" awaits you...

Variety is password this summer

Variety is the key in describing the eight popular non-subscription events to be offered by Meadow Brook Music Festival this summer. Tickets for each of these specials must be purchased on an individual basis.

The first event, scheduled for June 28, features Bobby Vinton, the teen-age singing idol of the '60's who has become a family favorite in the '70's. On July 18, Phoebe Snow and Gato Barbieri team up to interpret music in their own sensitive and rhythmic styles. Englishman Leo Sayer, best known for his recording of "You Make Me Feel Like Dancing" will demonstrate his singing and songwriting talents when he appears in concert on July 26.

Returning favorites include the Preservation Hall Jazz Band, scheduled for Aug. 1 and the popular husband-wife duo of Kris Kristofferson and Rita Collidge, who will perform on Aug. 29.

The first weekend of September will feature three special non-subscription events. On Sept. 1, the spotlight will focus on an internationally acclaimed lady of song — Dionne Warwick. The next evening, Sept. 2, the multi-talented Bobby Goldsboro will present a musical medley of his well-known hits. Meadow Brook Music Festival's grand finale will be the ever-popular Pat Boone and his daughter Debbie, who's sure to sing her Academy Award-winning version of "You Light Up My Life." All performances begin at 8:30 p.m. in the open-air Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus in Rochester. Tickets for these non-subscription events range from $6 on the lawn to $9 for reserved pavilion seats.

Production costs increase food prices

Consumers should be cautious when placing the blame for rising food prices, says Sheila Morley, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service consumer marketing specialist.

Food prices have not risen because food businesses are greedily grabbing all the profits they can earn. In most cases, price hikes are due to the increasing costs involved in food production and processing (labor costs, packaging materials, transportation costs, business taxes and energy costs). Prices also rise when food products are in short supply, according to Morley.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture predicts that food costs will climb 4 to 7 percent over last year's level. Most of the price boost during the rest of this year will be on meats, dairy products, vegetable oils, processed fruits and vegetables and possibly sugar products.

Beef prices, which are high and likely to remain so, are an example

"The rise in beef prices is mostly due to the short supply of cattle," Morley said. "Since cattle feed prices were high and beef prices were low, cattle ranchers weren't making a reasonable profit. Like any other businessmen, ranchers decided to trim back herds until beef prices began to rise rather than feed their cattle at a loss."

The cattle population has dropped by 16 million head over three years, and according to Morley, it takes about three years to build a herd back up again.

"If it's any comfort to consumers, the best cure for high prices is high prices," Morley explained. The high price of beef will encourage ranchers to produce more, and as the supply of beef increases, the price will decline.

"This is the beginning of a cure," she said, "but medicine isn't always as palatable as one might hope."

There is a smaller supply of pork than producers anticipated, which may cause an increase in pork prices around midsummer. However, marketing specialists predict prices will decline again toward the end of the year.

Plenty of broiler chickens at moderate prices will be available for the summer cook-out season.

"Watch for supermarket specials which may be offered on broilers in the coming months," Morley added. Michigan asparagus should be on supermarket shelves soon.

"One pound of asparagus yields two cups when cut up for cooking, and the thickest stalks are the most tender," Morley explains. "Asparagus usually is available in one or two pound bunches, but sometimes consumers have an opportunity to buy it in bulk. One 10-pound box yields seven to 10 pints," she said.

The Michigan greenhouse tomato season is just beginning and lasts until the end of July.

"Michigan greenhouse tomatoes are considerably more flavorful than tomatoes imported from other states," Morley observed. To identify the tastier Michigan product, look for tomatoes with stem and leaves still attached.

Michigan field-grown rhubarb is most often found at farmers' markets and roadside produce stands rather than in supermarkets.

"Field grown rhubarb stalks are not as pink as hothouse rhubarb (because field grown rhubarb gets more sunlight and has a higher chlorophyll content), but it tastes every bit as good," Morley stated.

California head lettuce prices have risen dramatically due to a short crop. Morley suggests trying salads that don't require lettuce to keep costs down. "Potato salad is traditional this time of year and teams up well with meals cooked out-of-doors," she explained.

"Michigan potato prices are particularly reasonable now."

Big success

State's PBS stations 'team up' for arts

Michigan's seven public television stations, including Channel 56 in Detroit, will join forces June 15 through 17 to broadcast "Michigan Celebrates the Arts," a series of live performances and major meetings from downtown Detroit.

Under the aegis of the Michigan Council for the Arts, dance, drama, and musical performances, as well as exhibits by artists, will be taking place near the riverfront, while at the same time, the first Michigan Congress on the Arts holds hearings on the future of the arts in Michigan. Broadcast of highlights of the three-day festival will be seen from 8 to 11 p.m. each night June 15-17 on all Michigan Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) stations.

It will be the public stations' most extensive cooperative effort to date. They will field television crews at the new riverfront amphitheatre in Hart Plaza, at Greektown's Attic Theatre and at the Renaissance Center (for coverage of the Arts Congress sessions).

In all, more than 55 producers, directors, technicians and engineers will be supplied by the Michigan PBS stations to cover the many events. Some of the outstate stations also will be bringing in their technical equipment to make the multi-site coverage possible.

Overall supervision for the production will come from Jack Costello, who is director of local productions at Channel 56 in Detroit.

Some of the major events during the three-day arts program include the arrival of the Michigan Artrain into the Grand Trunk siding next to the RenCen; Michigan Opera Theatre's performance of highlights from its season; and a walking tour of Detroit's artistic and cultural treasures.

There will be more than 70 performing groups from around the state, including the Boardhead Theatre Players from Lansing, the Avanti String Quartet from Battle Creek, and African, Indian, Irish, Polish and Ukrainian dancers.

The Arts Congress marks the completion of a year-long study by Michigan Council for the Arts of the most crucial issues facing the arts of Michigan. Some of the hearings on these problems to be covered by the PBS stations include sessions on assisting individual artists, reviewing current legislation designed to support the arts, increasing labor involvement in the arts and considering the media as an art form.

The venture of jointly televising this major cultural event is the latest example of the recently increased cooperation among Michigan's PBS stations.

Mahalak decries regulating potluck

The potluck supper is an American institution and does not need government regulation, believes State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-38th District).

Because of this belief, Mahalak has co-sponsored a bill to prevent health department officials from regulating potluck suppers by non-profit groups.

The legislation followed complaints of health department harassment by various groups. The health officials were, in some parts of the state, attempting to require persons sponsoring potlucks to meet the same health sanitation standards as restaurants and other commercial food establishments.

The new law exempts from provisions of the Food Service Sanitation Act non-profit organizations operating potluck or bake sale in connection with their meetings or a community service or fundraising event.

"Applying these restaurant food standards to potlucks is like saying we don't trust the cleanliness of our wives, mothers and daughters," Mahalak said. "If we eat the food that they prepare in their kitchens, we can certainly safely eat that same food when it is prepared for a potluck or bake sale."

He said there have been known instances of health officials applying food service sanitation standards to prohibit or restrict potlucks aimed at the general public.

"This is over-regulation, unnecessary harassment and an insult to the good women who voluntarily contribute time and effort to worthy causes," Mahalak said. "Potlucks serve as an important source of community pride and of funds for organizations that sponsor them."

"People who attend potlucks are aware that the food being served was prepared in private homes and not in 'licensed and approved' kitchens. Prohibiting or restricting potlucks is an example of totally unwarranted over-protection of the public."

Why not spruce up mailbox this week?

Upholding the tradition that spring is cleanup time around households, Belleville Postmaster R. J. O'Neil has announced that the week of May 29 is being observed as "Mailbox Improvement Week."

Belleville residents are urged to repair, repaint and make other improvements to all mailboxes, particularly to those located along rural, city delivery curb-line and highway contract routes.

"Customers should be sure their boxes provide adequate protection to the mail and are easily reached by carriers. That helps speed collection and delivery of their mail," O'Neil said. "Attractive mailboxes also add to the general appearance of our community," he said.

The annual observance began generations ago in small towns and rural areas.

Rural carriers each day travel approximately 2.2 million miles to serve 14.3 million families along 33,600 regular and auxiliary routes zigzagging across America.

Approximately 3,000 families in the Belleville area are served by five rural mail routes.

When rural mail service began in 1896, many make-shift receptacles — including tin cans nailed to trees — were used as mailboxes.

Postal history reflects that a Kansas resident, Ira F. Collins, was among the first customers to show an interest in improving the appearance and security of the mailbox.

On April 29, 1903, Collins filed a patent application for his invention of a new and improved mailbox: "of simple construction and inexpensive and so arranged as to protect the deposited mail-matter from rain or snow and which can be quickly opened and closed, resulting in a great saving of time in the collection and delivery of mail."

The metal, cylindrical receptacle had two basic parts: a mail-receiving unit, shaped like a scoop, which slid in and out of a protective outer casing. A flag, attached to the outer unit, could be raised to indicate when mail was to be collected. By grasping a handle, a person could release the inner unit, containing the mail, from the outer casing. The latter offered protection of the mail from the weather. The mailbox could be attached in a vertical position to a post or any suitable support.

Today, a variety of approved commercial mailbox designs are provided for use with decorative posts. Customers who prefer custom-made mailboxes may check with the Belleville Post Office, O'Neil said.

Money Market Certificate

This new Money Market Certificate enables you to earn the same rate for the same term as six-month U.S. Treasury bills. The certificate is issued for a 26-week maturity in amounts of $10,000 or more at a rate which is constant for the term of your certificate. It is established weekly, and is equal to the average yield for six-month Treasury bills in the most recent weekly auction. On May 22 the rate was 7.14%.

Your funds are available at maturity without penalty, when you can choose a new Money Market Certificate at the then prevailing rate.* For more details on how this certificate can work for you, and for the current rate, please call us at 283-5000.

7³/₄% Certificate of Deposit

Earn 7³/₄% annually on $1,000 or more with this all-new 8-year* Security Certificate of Deposit. It's an ideal plan for a guaranteed high return over a long term. Interest is paid semi-annually.

*Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate.

Divetta, Rogers complete Air Force basic Airmen John J. Divetta and Richard A. Rogers recently graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

The airmen will be remaining at Lackland for specialized training in the security police field. Rogers is the son of Richard Rogers of Detroit. His wife, Godiva, is the daughter of Mrs. Beatheas Jackson of Romulus. Divetta is the son of Mrs. Frances S. Divetta of Leroy, Romulus.

Both airmen studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations during their basic training. Completion of the training earned them credits towards an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Divetta is a 1973 graduate of Huron High School in New Boston, while Rogers is a 1974 graduate of Cooley High School in Detroit.

In the armed forces:

JOHN DIVETTA

RICHARD ROGERS

Carter of Newcastle, Romulus, has reported for duty with 3rd Marine Division, on Okinawa.

A 1972 graduate of Romulus High School, he joined the Marine Corps in February 1976.

Airman James E. Carter, the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Carter Sr. of Beverly Road, Romulus, has been assigned to Barksdale Air Force Base, La., for duty in the U.S. Air Force civil engineering structural and pavements field.

The airman, who recently completed basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Airman Carter is a 1976 graduate of Romulus High School.

Marine Pfc. Donna F. McCain, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCain of Second Street, Romulus, has completed a Basic Plumbing and Water Supply Course.

During the seven-week course at the Marine Corps Base at Camp Lejeune, N.C., students received introductory instruction on the installation, maintenance and repair of plumbing fixtures and water purification systems. They also studied the equipment and techniques used in the development of field water supply sources.

A 1975 graduate of Romulus Senior High School, she joined the Marine Corps in November 1977.

Navy Boatwain's Mate Lawrence G. Kangas, whose wife, Diana, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll W. Bush of Van Horn Road, New Boston, is participating in exercise "Solid Shield '78."

He is assigned to the replenishment oiler USS Kalamazoo, homeported in Mayport, Fla.

Conducted in the Atlantic coastal waters off North Carolina, plus Camp Lejeune, N.C. and Fort Stewart, Ga., this 10-day exercise involves more than 28,000 personnel. Participants include the Army's 18th Airborne Corps, the Navy's Atlantic Fleet, the Atlantic Fleet Marine Force and the Air Force's Tactical Air Command and Military Airlift Command.

"Solid Shield '78" is the 16th in a series of annual, joint-service exercises emphasizing command and control of military forces in a simulated combat environment.

Kangas joined the Navy in April 1964.

Spec. 4 Mark W. Carrico, the son of Mrs. Faye J. Carrico of Mountain Way, Romulus, recently participated in an Army Training and Evaluation Program in Germany. The program is designed to evaluate individual and unit efficiency under simulated combat conditions.

Carrico, an assistant gunner with the 36th Field Artillery in Augsburg, entered the Army in July 1975.

The specialist is a 1974 graduate of Annapolis High School, Dearborn Heights.

James D. McCoy, whose wife, Victoria, lives on Elwell Road in Belleville, recently was promoted to Army specialist four while serving as a tank gunner with the 1st Cavalry Division at Fort Hood, Tex. McCoy is a 1972 graduate of Belleville High School.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. McCoy, live on Belleville Road.

Pvt. George K. Reese, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Reese of Hollywood, Romulus, recently was assigned with the 82nd Field Artillery at Fort Hood, Tex.

Reese entered the Army in November 1977.

He is a 1974 graduate of Roosevelt High School in Wyandotte, Mich.

His wife, Bonita, is with him in Texas.

Navy Aviation Structural Mechanic 2.c. David R. Currie, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Currie of Hannan Road, Romulus, has departed for an extended deployment in the Mediterranean Sea.

Think dwarf trees

If you're thinking of planting fruit trees in your backyard, think small — buy dwarfs. They're early bearing, easy to prune, spray and pick, and they require less space to grow than ordinary fruit trees.

Dwarf fruit trees are vegetatively propagated from rootstocks rather than seeds. Rooted cuttings are budded with the desired apple or other fruit variety to produce a dwarf tree in about 2½ years. This special process produces a much smaller tree that bears normal-sized fruit.

Dwarfs need the same sort of care that full-sized trees need — water, fertilizer, and disease and insect control programs — their small size makes these chores somewhat easier. Spraying and harvesting can be done without ladders.

When buying dwarf apple trees, backyard fruit growers should look for two or three varieties. The ideal one, M.9, is attractive for its height and bears fruit the first or second year after planting. It may be in short supply, however. Other acceptable varieties are M.26 and M.7. They grow a few feet taller than M.9 and bear later.

If you prefer pears to apples, ask your nursery operator for a dwarf pear that is grown on Quince-A rootstock. Peaches and plums usually are grown on sand cherry, Nankin cherry or St. Julien-A rootstocks.

Check for the rootstock on the tag on any tree you buy. Then you will know you're getting a genuine dwarf.

Poisonous plants are discussed

Poisonous plants will be discussed during a family nature walk to be held at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock on Sunday at 2 p.m. Park naturalist Bob Wittersheim will lead visitors on a search for many plants with factual and fabled toxic powers. Mayapple, pokeweed, poison ivy, nightshade and mushrooms will be featured.

Vehicle entry permits — regular $5; senior citizen, $1, or dialy, $1 are required.

For additional information contact the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark at 782-1255 (Flat Rock).

He is assigned to Attack Squadron 83 (VA-83), based at Cecil Field Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla. His squadron currently is embarked aboard the aircraft carrier USS Forrestal, operating as a unit of the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

During the cruise, VA-83 is scheduled to participate in various training exercises with other Sixth Fleet units and those of allied nations. Port visits are scheduled in Spain, France, Italy, Yugoslavia and several other Mediterranean coastal cities.

A 1974 graduate of Romulus High School, Currie joined the Navy in April 1975.

Four Romulus residents were among 530 Masons from 11 southeastern Michigan counties to receive Scottish Rite Freemasonry's 32nd degree in a two-day reunion May 12-13. The recipients were Howard Abbott Jr. (From left) of Newcastle, Arthur R. Moose of Northline, William C.

Crain of Forestdale and Clarence Trent Jr. of Oakbrook. The 284th reunion of the Detroit Scottish Rite Bodies had Michigan Court of Appeals Judge George N. Bashara Jr. as the speaker.

Garden corner

Q: Should I remove the flowers from newly purchased tomato transplants?

A: It's a good idea. Your plants will be stronger and produce better if they have a few weeks in the garden to grow roots and foliage before they start channeling their energies into flowers and fruits.

Q: My yard isn't very sunny but I'd like to grow some vegetables. What's best to plant in areas that don't get much sun?

A: Leafy vegetables — lettuce, spinach, endive, chard, kale, mustard greens — and vegetables grown for their roots — beets, carrots, radishes, turnips — do better in partial shade than plants grown for their fruits — tomatoes, peppers, eggplant, beans, corn and squash.

Q: I planted some tulips and other spring bulbs last fall but nothing came up this year. Do you think the bulbs were bad?

A: Two major causes of failure with flowering bulbs are poor planting site and planting too late. Bulbs planted in a low lying, poorly drained site tend to rot, as do bulbs planted too late in the fall. Unsound bulbs are the least common reason for bulb failure.

Q: Why are you supposed to stay out of the garden when it's wet?

A: Wet soil, especially wet clay soil, sticks to tools and feet. It also becomes compacted easily — crushed together so that air is driven out of it. Wet plant foliage is especially susceptible to attack by the organisms that cause plant diseases. You can easily spread diseases from one plant to another by brushing against them when they're wet.

Q: I know that a plant that has roots growing out of the drainage hole in the pot needs more room. Are there other signs that plants need repotting?

A: Roots on the top of the soil, a general slowdown in leaf and stem growth, and the need for frequent watering are other indications. The best way to be sure is to tip the plant out of the pot and check. A solid mass of roots with little or no soil visible indicates the plant needs repotting. Use a container about two inches deeper and wider than the old one.

Q: I put my jade plant outside last summer and it grew like a weed, but the edges of the leaves turned red. Is this a sign there's something wrong with it? It's gone all green again over the winter. Should I put it outside this year?

A: The edges of the leaves on the jade plant turn red when the plant is exposed to sunlight or lots of bright light. It's no cause for alarm. Go ahead and put the plant outdoors. Just be sure to keep it out of direct sun and protect it against wind. The jade plant is top-heavy and shallow rooted — it blows over easily.

Q: Last summer, my Austrian pines developed a lot of brown tips that were quite unsightly. I let it go at the time, thinking that maybe the dry weather had something to do with it, but now I'm wondering if it might have been some disease instead. Is there something I should be doing now to prevent it from happening again?

A: It sounds like diplodia tip blight. This is a fungus disease that attacks Austrian pine and kills the tips of the branches. Spores liberated in the spring attack the growing buds. The disease continues to infect the tree as long as there is growing tissue present. Browning of the tips usually doesn't show up until late June or July, by which time it's too late to do anything about the disease. It can be controlled in the spring with two sprays of Bordeaux mixture (4-4-50), one applied as soon as the buds begin to swell and another 10 days later. This treatment prevents the spores from infecting the buds. The later you wait to spray, the less effective the control.

District championships to be decided on Saturday

JM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Jumble by high school teams for the coveted state will begin on Saturday when survivors of pre-district and district rounds converge upon the state finals.

The winners of district titles will eventually advance to regional, state quarter-finals and then the state finals.

Belleville, Wayne Memorial and Westland John Glenn earned berths for the Class A district tournament which will be held Saturday at Ypsilanti High.

Wayne made sure that the host, Ypsilanti, wouldn't be represented by beating the Braves 3-1 in Saturday behind Jim Canfield's six-hit pitching performance. Canfield also throttled Ann Arbor Pioneer 5-1 in the qualifying round.

Belleville won an emotional game Friday from neighboring Romulus 8-1 behind Stan Price's four-hitter. On Wednesday of last week the school had learned that veteran coach and athletic director Harry Hidenfelter suffered a fatal heart attack. He was 48.

Westland John Glenn's ticket to the district playoffs was a 4-3 extra inning victory over Brighton. Glenn will face Belleville in the first round at 10 a.m., while Wayne takes on a yet-to-be announced rival at noon.

The two winners will play at 3 p.m. for the district title and the right to be represented at the regional. Glenn rallied for two runs in the top of the seventh to tie up the game at 3-3, then in the ninth broke the deadlock as the Rockets scraped together a pair of singles by Tim Ruark and Jim Irwin after Craig Walker got aboard on an error.

center field for a 340-foot homer to put Coach Norm Hoenes' team on the board in the sixth inning.

But that left the Westlanders shy two runs, going into the seventh inning. In that inning, Ralph Sudia walked, Rick Kruek, elevated to varsity status from the jayvees, made his initial appearance an auspicious one as he drilled a homer to left center, scoring the tying runs.

Ralph McKenzie appears to be the miracle cure that Hoenes and his Rockets have been waiting for. The righthanded junior hurled a six-hitter, fanned eight and walked one to fatten his pitching record to 6-1 on the season.

Collins, also a righthander, blanked the Westlanders for five innings before he gave up a pair of homers. He notched 15 strikeouts in his final appearance on the mound this season.

Though they displayed a lack of consistency at the plate during the regular season, Belleville didn't show the malaise against Romulus as the Tigers pounded loser Mike Marsiglia and a pair of relievers for 12 hits in an 8-1 pre-district triumph.

Price proved that the premature reports about the Tiger demise had been wholly exaggerated as he fanned seven, walked six in twirling a four-hitter against Romulus. The Belleville senior missed a shutout when he gave up a run in the top of the fifth on a walk to Jim Sullivan and a two-out triple to John Bozelak.

"We're starting a new season on Friday," stressed Belleville Coach Dan Fisher, "and we're looking forward to it."

Belleville leaped on Marsiglia, who had been sidelined most of the season with a broken ankle, for a run in the first inning when Larry Cicotte got aboard on a bobbled grounder, stole second and went to third on the overthrow. He galloped home when Paul Arnett's ground ball also wound up as an error — one

Tribute to Hidenfelter

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Last Tuesday our photographer dumped a stack of Belleville High-Alton Park baseball photos on my desk and I needed some more information to write what we in this business call cutlines.

I telephoned Belleville High and head baseball Coach Dan Fisher was in the classroom and wouldn't be available until after 1 p.m. "Could Mr. Hidenfelter help you?" asked the receptionist.

"I think so," I replied. A few seconds later, Hidenfelter, the school's athletic director, was on the other end and informing him about my problem, he said, "Hey, babe, don't worry. I'll get back to you in a few minutes with the information."

Sure enough, Harry Hidenfelter was back on the line filling in the blanks for the cutlines and identifying pictures via telephone and coming up with enough stats so that I could write my story.

Harry Hidenfelter was always ready to lend a helpful hand to anyone who needed it.

Last Wednesday, at the age of 48, Hidenfelter succumbed to a fatal heart attack and his death shocked the community. The tireless educator, whose strict sense of fairness had inspired students and athletes, coaches and teachers, showed no signs of illness or sickness.

"It is actually frightening," said one of the area track coaches. "Harry was a picture of health and I know that his death is going to shock a lot of us."

Hidenfelter had spent more than a quarter of a century at Belleville High as a teacher, a coach and an athletic director. During that span literally thousands of young athletes learned from this strict disciplinarian that he wouldn't tolerate lackadaisical performances inside the classrooms or on the athletic fields. He won the adulation of all who came in contact with him for his straightforwardness and honesty.

A graduate of Albion College with a masters of art that included majors in physical education and administration, Hidenfelter was responsible for organizing a series of notable tournaments and invitational events that involved many of the area schools. Nineteen years ago, Harry and Don Domke, now the athletic director at Westland John Glenn, set the wheels in motion for the Western Wayne Relays. Harry also took from the drawing boards and made into reality the Western Wayne Golf Tournament, the prestigious Western Wayne Swimming & Diving Championships and many other projects.

I personally will never forget the first time I met the man. The second day on this job some 15 years ago, the then co-publisher of the ANP, Ray Clift, who lived in Belleville, told me, "to meet him at Belleville High School because I want to introduce you to someone."

Early the following morning I drove to Belleville High and Ray was waiting for me. We entered Hidenfelter's offices and Harry had coffee and donuts waiting for us.

The brief exchange of dialogue left an imprint which has stayed over the many years — that Hidenfelter wanted it to be made clear that he asks the best from his coaches and athletes and also wouldn't tolerate mediocre coverage from the media.

One could never remain neutral about him: he was a fierce competitor as a coach — when the news media failed to select Frank Nunley on an all-state football team Harry got on the telephone and told the would-be selectors, "that long after your selections vanish into obscurity, you'll be writing about Nunley." Time proved Harry right as Nunley went on to Big 10, All-American fame at the University of Michigan and later played 10 years of professional football in the National Football League. He starred as a middle linebacker the past few years with the San Francisco 49ers.

Hidenfelter was raged when the prep sportswriters failed to honor another Belleville grid star, Keith Simmons, as an all-stater. Simmons, of course, was a four-time letter-winner at Minnesota and will soon be launching his pro career.

Unfortunately, death took Hidenfelter from our ranks. But how many of us have accomplished as much as he had in his short span with us.

Harry's last words to me last Tuesday were: "Take care of yourself."

It was just like him, "always caring for the other person."

Dear Tom,

I would like to take a few minutes of your time to express my feelings of the loss of a true friend of yours and mine.

As you know, Harry Hidenfelter passed away last Tuesday night before he could witness the complete results of all his hard work as Athletic Director of Belleville High School.

There has never been anyone at Belleville that has put the time and effort into his job that Harry did in athletics.

Through his long hours of work he was responsible for the development of so many programs throughout this entire area, but he was the last to receive the credit. So many people took Harry for granted and didn't appreciate the job he was doing for all of us.

Dave Bowen captures triple crown

The three-way showdown between defending champ Livonia Franklin, North Farmington and Westland John Glenn for the Northwest Suburban Convergence track title didn't materialize last week as the Livonians parlayed eight first places to easily repeat as the top team in the league.

Franklin's senior multi-talented athlete, Dave Bowen, single-handedly contributed three of the eight first places as he rattled off victories in the long jump, 220-yard dash and the 440-yard dash.

The defending champs also swept all three relays to cap an undefeated league year with their fifth league title in 10 years.

"Everything went well," commented Franklin Coach Bob Holmes after the meet. "We came out of the field events with a pretty good lead and I knew then it was all over."

"In fact, it was the first time in recent years I was able to sit back and enjoy the meet," Holmes added.

Franklin had a 37-24 edge over its closest rival, North Farmington, after the field events. Westland John Glenn just didn't muster enough strength to pose a serious threat to the champs.

Bowen, who recently accepted a full-ride scholarship to attend Wayne State, won the long jump with a leap of 20 feet, 9 inches. He came back and ran a 50.9 for the quarter-mile, and his 22.7 was the fastest time in the 220-yard dash.

Don Boka had a put of 50 feet, 9 inches to give the Patriots the shot put, while Dave Kmet and teammate Bruce DeNapoli tied for first in the vaulting competition with similar 12 feet, 6 inch performances.

Holmes' 880-yard relay team held off its rivals as Jeff Williams, Nate Kean, Paul Berry and Phil Frusti

Playing catchup

While North Farmington's Mike Miller leads the field, a pair of Westland John Glenn hurdlers try to make up for lost ground during the 1978 Northwest Suburban Conference championships last week at Livonia Franklin.

Miller won the event in 38.1, but his performance couldn't offset the balance and depth defending champ Franklin threw into the field. Franklin went on to retain the title for the second consecutive year.

Blaha, Mason easy winners at Great Lake championship

Though the frustrating track season has added a few wrinkles on Wayne Memorial head track coach Ernie Righetti's face, he can't blame his runners for any of them.

Righetti received a total of two points in the five field events while the Zebras amassed 84 points from the compiled efforts of their runners to place third at the first annual Great Lakes 8 Conference track & Field Championships.

Unbeaten Monroe came up with 147 points to retain the conference title it took away from the Zebras a year ago. Trailing Monroe was Taylor Center, with 126½, followed by Wayne, Fordson (61), Riverview and Taylor Truman, with 26 each, Wyandotte (18) and Lincoln Park 3½.

A good of good reasons why Wayne looked good in the running events were Rick Blaha who capped a brilliant league career with a pair of gold medals, and Ron Mason, who put the half-mile in the Wayne column thanks to a record-run.

Righetti labeled Blaha as "the finest distance runner in the history of Wayne Memorial. He has tremendous ability and insofar as he isn't even near his peak, he's going to be a great one when he reaches it."

Blaha dominated the two and one mile runs. He was clocked in 4:25.3 for the mile and toured the two-mile in 9:34.2. Both performances broke his previous conference marks.

Rick has won the conference titles in both events for the past two years and each time he has rewritten the records for the events.

Salem to host Suburban '8' track

If Plymouth Salem can muster up enough points in the field events, Coach Gary Balconi feels that there may be an upset in the making when the Suburban 8 Conference track teams get together at Salem.

Balconi definitely sees Edsel Ford as the team to catch "because the defending champ has a lot of talent in the running events."

"However, we're going to make a run for the league title this year," Balconi insists. "We're going to need the breaks and luck, but I feel we can do it."

"A lot is going to depend upon how we come out of the field events," Balconi continued. "Edsel and Dearborn are strong and if we can come out of the field with an edge, I feel we'll hold our own in track."

Salem will entertain the conference teams on May 31 beginning with the field events at 3 p.m., the preliminary running events at 4 p.m., and the finals at 7 p.m. There is a small admission charge.

Meanwhile, Balconi's Rocks padded their league record to 5-2 as they defeated Redford Union's "one man" team, Mike Petsch, 105½-46.

Petsch, a 6-5 senior who recently signed a national letter of intent to attend the University of Michigan on a full-ride football scholarship, won four of the five field events. He accounted for R.U. victories in the discus (150'5"), shot put (59'9"), long jump (21'7") and the high jump (6'4").

On his way

Bolting from the starting block, Livonia Franklin's Jeff Williams gets off to an excellent start in the 880-yard relay during the league championships last Wednesday. Franklin won the relay and picked up a pair of golds in the 440 as well as the mile relays as Coach Bob Holmes' Patriots retained the Northwest Suburban crown. The Livonians chalked up eight first places out of a possible 16 and three of those victories were contributions by Dave Bowen, who won the long jump, 220 and the 440-yard dashes.

Future all-state cagers

Learning athletic skills at an early year can make a youngster proficient in sports. And with that in mind Romulus High varsity cage coach Rod Hanna organized a basketball clinic with the help of the Romulus Parks and Recreation Department and received an excellent response. The youngsters received trophies, donated by the rec. department, for their skills and pictured above

Cherry Hill claims 4th straight track title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Cherry Hill extended its monopoly of the Tri-River Conference track & field championships by winning the league meet for an unprecedented four straight years.

Coach Joe Grasley's Spartans edged their closest rival, Garden City West, 92½-83½, at the league championships held last Wednesday at West High.

Dearborn Heights Riverside and Melvindale.

Cherry Hill claimed four first places, but in that package were all three relays.

Grasley said he was proud of his year and felt that his athletes were deserving of the title.

"We have had some excellent teams in the past," commented Grasley, "and they also have gone through seasons with perfect record, but this group had a lot of pressure on it because we just didn't have the experience we have had in the past."

"I don't think I have had a deserving group to win a championship than this group of kids," Grasley added.

The Spartans not only extend their championship reign for the fourth year straight but also stretched their league dual meet winning streak to 31, which has to be one of, if not the longest, in the state for a Class B team.

Cherry Hill sophomore Ramon Lara captured a gold medal in the two-mile run and he toured the West course in 9:41.9 to lead teammate Keith Leverton across the finish line. Leverton's second place time was recorded as 9:58.0.

Grasley's 880-yard relay team, made up of Ivy Gregory, John Ireland, Darryl Gallant and Chuck Hobi nipped their counterparts from West by a mere four-tenths of a second. The Spartans were clocked in the winning time of 1:35.0.

In the 440-yard relay, Cherry Hill had the winning combination with Jim Eiben, Bob Norwood, Dale Redick and Gregory who combined for a 46.4 finish.

With Gallant, Ireland, Tom Goring and Scott Johnson, the four-time defending champ capped the incredible season with a gold in the mile relay. The foursome finished with a 3:33.3.

There was only one record turned in as John Mitroka tossed the discus 147 feet, 11 inches. The Schafer senior beat his brother, Jin, who had a toss of 136 feet, 7 inches for the gold.

"Grand slam"

Glenn's Eric Babler returns a volley during the Northwest Suburban Conference tennis tournament last week. Babler and his teammates dominated the championships as they swept six out of a possible seven flights to retain the title they won a year ago.

TYRONE JORDAN

Tyrone Jordan, an all-state, all-area cager who led Cherry Hill to an undisputed Tri-River Conference championship and into the regional finals, has signed a national letter of intent to attend Henry Ford Community College.

Jordan, a 6-5 lanky sharpshooter who transferred to Cherry Hill after playing his sophomore and junior years at Taylor Center, averaged 22.5 points per game.

"We feel that Tyrone is the type of player who'll be a big asset to our program," said Jim Armitage, Henry Ford Community College head coach. "We're rebuilding our program and players of Tyrone's caliber will indeed help us out."

HFCC's record dipped to 16-10 last year after the Hawks had won 20 games the previous season.

Armitage also picked a pair of former teammates who will be together this fall at HFCC. The Hawk coach said that he has a verbal commitment from Darnell Morris to play for the Dearborn-based team and that Morris will be joined by Herb Buckley of Romulus.

Both Morris and Buckley made the Associated Newspapers' All-Area team last season.

Turner Service, always a power to reckon with in the Wayne Women's Softball League, picked up where it left off a year ago, with an easy victory over Club Canton.

Cindy Cowland turned in a rare no-hitter and received more than ample hitting support from her teammates who struck for 14 runs in the first inning before coasting to their third consecutive victory against no losses.

Kate Bledsoe pounded out a homer run, while Maureen McIntosh and Sarah Grider each chipped in two hits.

Turner, 3-0 on the young season, stands atop of the league, but they have Tastee Freez and J & D Auto Parts breathing down their necks. Tastee Freez and J & D Auto Parts also have untainted records (2-0).

J & D leaped on losing pitcher Janet Bartokowski for five runs in the first and added 11 more in the second inning to subdue Club Canton 23-4 for its second victory.

Canton's Stephanie Marowide, Shirley Berthowiar and Ann Bolander each had two singles off of winning pitcher Mary Porter who gave up a total of nine. Gay Diehl, Lou Hoeft, Mary Porter each slammed homers for the winners.

Tastee Freez erupted for six runs in the first inning and went on to humble Standard Federal in their first meeting of the season. Brenda Schwartz latched on to five runs batted in thanks to a pair of triples, while Renee Burnie also sliced two three-baggers and counted three RBIs for the game. Joyce Schwartz and Rilla Thedford each checked in with three hits - all singles.

Winning pitcher Renee Burnie gave up a total of three hits, two two Lil Russell, while Nancy Blackmore was touched up for 15 hits by the winners.

In one of the better-played games, Jake's Lounge rallied for five runs in the bottom of the fourth to claim a come-from-behind 9-7 victory over Commercial Power-Brake.

Both winning pitcher Lynne Divetta and Gail Debolt who relived starter Martha Callegart and took the loss, gave up seven hits.

Karen Vickers and Kathy Chafin paced the winner's assault with two hits apiece, while Theresa Callegart and Terry Loucks also belted out two hits.

Unstrut found its way into the winning column at the expense of Standard Federal's 9-1 as winning pitcher Fran Murphy hurled a two-hitter.

Garaging is added insurance that your car's paint job will stay bright. A car that frequently stands out in the hot sun or in ice and snow will turn dull or pale and develop rust spots long before one that is kept under cover. If you don't have a garage or even a carport, consider investing in a plastic car cover, especially near the ocean or in an area of heavy industrial fallout. Since these waterproof, greaseproof and fireproof coverings slip on or off quickly and fold for storage, they can be used to cover your car when it must be left exposed.

If you like to work on your own car, visit KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan Ave., Inkster, for the parts and accessories you need! We have a full stock of quality parts for foreign and domestic cars, and our knowledgeable staff will be happy to help you select those that are right for your particular car. We also handle all types of engine repair problems in our fully-equipped machine shop. Our service is fast, efficient and reasonably priced. Call KOSIN'S at 563-3894. We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M.

Auto Tip:
To clean chrome, metalized plastic trim and the dashboard, wash with a soft cloth dipped in a sudsy mixture of warm water and mild detergent.

Ex-Wayne grid star signs 2-year contract

Slamer is a Toronto Argonaut

Al Slamer, who was one of the outstanding defensive players in Wayne Memorial's recent history, has signed a professional football contract with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League. Slamer is to report to camp on June 1, the day of his 22nd birthday.

The 6-3½, 250-pound Slamer prepped at Wayne where he earned all-conference and all-state recognition as a defensive tackle.

His abilities didn't go unnoticed by the college scouts and Slamer decided to attend Eastern Michigan University where as a freshman he broke into the Huron starting defensive line.

At Eastern, Slamer starred on the gridiron and in the classroom where he managed to earn a 3.4 scholastic average and subsequently was named to the all-Mid-American academic team for the past two years.

A special education major, Slamer by-passed playing professional football in the States "because of a more lucrative contract," according to Al's older brother, Charles Slamer.

"Al received a very good contract," said older brother, Chuck. "He has signed for two years and has the option of reassessing it after the first year of competition."

Preps head for playoffs

of six committed by the Eagles. Belleville picked up two more runs in the third as Arnett was safe on an error, stole second and came home on Dan Styles' single. After Styles stole second he scored when Rob Laney's grounder was misplayed by the infield. With two-away in the fourth, the Tigers widened the margin to 5-0 when sophomore Dave Stamper singled, advanced to second on Cicotte's base hit and scored as Arnett's sliced a single. Styles' single drove home Cicotte. Fisher's ball club sealed the victory with a three-run sixth thanks to a walk to Stamper, a single by Arnett and a base-hit by Styles who drove in one run. Then, Mercurio latched on to a two-run double for what proved to be the final runs of the ball game. Mercurio had an outstanding day as he battled four-for-four and also drove in those two sixth inning runs. Styles wound up with three hits in four trips and two RBI's, while Arnett's contributions include a pair of safeties and three RBI's. Wayne's incredible pitching machine, Canfield, continued to churn out victories as the senior hurler chalked up No. 8 and No. 9 wins against no losses.

Canfield muzzled Ypsilanti 3-1 as he notched 15 strikeouts for the third time this season and didn't issue a base on balls. He served up six hits while Ypsilanti wrecked his chances of a shutout in the second inning when the Braves put the tying run on the board. Wayne drew first blood when Mark Korte singled with one-away in the first inning, then stole second and scored when Canfield belted a single over the centerfielder's head. Canfield, hobbling on a sprained ankle, barely beat the peg to first. "The injury didn't bother his throwing motion," explained Jim Chronowski, Wayne's seasoned mentor, "however, he (Canfield) could barely run. After Ypsilanti had tied it up in the second, Wayne came back in the bottom of the third to score two runs that stood up for the crucial victory. In that inning, Wayne made good use of a porous Ypsi defense. Mark Zeron led off with a walk, stole second and, after one was out, Korte put down a slow grounder for an infield hit. Korte then stole second and losing pitcher Kevin Smith decided to intentionally walk Canfield. With the bases loaded, Rich Porter hit a high hopper to third who fired the ball over the catcher's head and allowed the two runs to score. Last Tuesday, Canfield fanned 10, walked one and gave up six hits en route to a 5-1 victory over Ann Arbor Pioneer in the pre-district qualifying game. Scott Richards, tagged for three runs in the second and two in the sixth, was the loser. The Zebras collected what proved to be enough runs to win in the second inning when Porter led off with a walk moved to second on Doug McGill's single then Larry Vojtkofsky, attempting to sacrifice, bunted back to Richards who threw wild to third, allowing all runners to be safe. Porter scored on a throwing error and Ray Layton singled in the second run. Bob Nutt's groundout paved the way for the final run of the inning.

Head-over-heels for the optimum

With his wings stretched out, Westland John Glenn's Brad Jennings flies over the 6-foot marker during the Northwest Suburban Convergence track and field championships. Jennings' performance netted him a third place as North Farmington jumpers Rob Henderhan and Mark Howley finished 1-2 in the event.

End year with 8 - 1 track record

Romulus rips Clarenceville

Encountering little resistance from Clarenceville, Romulus runners coasted past their final track rivals of the 1978 campaign 147-11 for their eighth victory in nine starts.

The Eagles cleaned up all 16 events, slamming most of them in one of their most lopsided victories of the year. Coach Al Wilkerson's thincads have now won 21 of their last 24 dual meets.

Donald Grandison, who will be representing Romulus in the high jump at the state Class A finals, chalked up three of the 16 events as he cleared 6'6" in the high jump, leaped 20'7" in the long jump and ran a 24.4 for the 220-yard dash. Steve Zimmerman and Les Beregsassy each turned in with a pair

Repeat performance

Livonia Franklin's Dave Bowen crosses the finish line first to claim the gold medal for the 220-yard dash, one of three first places the versatile senior chalked up during the Northwest Suburban Conference track and field championships held last Wednesday at the Livonia-based high school. Franklin went on to win the team championship for the second successive year and wound up with a perfect dual meet league record.

Bowen wins 'triple crown'

In the 440-yard relay, the Patriots put together a foursome made up of Jerry Cifor, Keith Kline, Andy Dankovic and Paul Berry who combined for a 44.8 winning finish.

The Livonians wrapped up the evening with the gold in the mile relay as Bill Flannigan, Mark Oleski, Kean and Frusti coasted to a 3:27.6 to earn the conference title in that event.

Glenn was represented on the winner's dais by half-miler Randy Gabrys who was clocked in the winning time of 1:58.2 for the 880, besting Garden City East's Tim Phillips by four-tenths of a second.

Corry Gielinski's 4:27.6 run in the mile earned for him and Glenn the gold medal.

Though Franklin will rule the league for another year by virtue of its perfect league (4-0) record and a first place at the conference championships, the runner-up spot will be shared between Glenn, who beat North Farmington in a head-tohead dual meet but finished behind North at the league meet. North had 71 points while Glenn was a distant third with 47.

Garden City East piled up 25 points and the Redford Thurston finished last with 19.

Wayne runners 3rd in Great Lakes 8

He will be making the trip to Flint Northwestern this weekend to compete for the state titles and, though an underdog, the Wayne senior should be among the leaders. In fact, Righetti feels Blaha will win it all.

"I know that only a few feel that Rick can win the state," said Righetti, "but I feel he has an excellent shot at finishing first in the two or the one mile or even both." "The races will be interesting," Righetti added.

Wayne finished 1-2-3 in the two-mile at the conference as Blaha led teammates Doug Tolson (9:56) and Paul Spencer (10:00), respectively across the finish line.

One of the best half-mile fields fought it out for the conference title and when the running was completed, Wayne had a second champ in senior Ron Mason.

Mason was clocked in 1:55.5, and broke the record-barrier in finishing first. He eclipsed the old mark of 1:57.8 held by teammate Roy Reges who ran in the quarter-mile.

Though Wayne's Mark Michalowski turned in his best time in the 880-yard run (2:01.6) it was worth only a fifth place.

Righetti's mile relay also won the league title. With Mason, Reges, Tim Dean and Michalowski, the Zebra mentor had the top team in the league. The foursome took on all challengers and emerged from the finals with a record-setting 3:29.3 which nipped Fordson's previous mark of 3:30.3.

Softball, anyone?

Women interested in a "pick-up" softball league should head for the Central City Park diamond and the Jaycees Park in Westland Tuesday and Wednesday mornings. Games will be played from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The league offers players an opportunity to compete in softball but not at a highly-competitive level.

Teams will be chosen from those who attend each session. An instructor will be present to organize the games and there is no cost, however, players must bring their own glove.

Swim meet

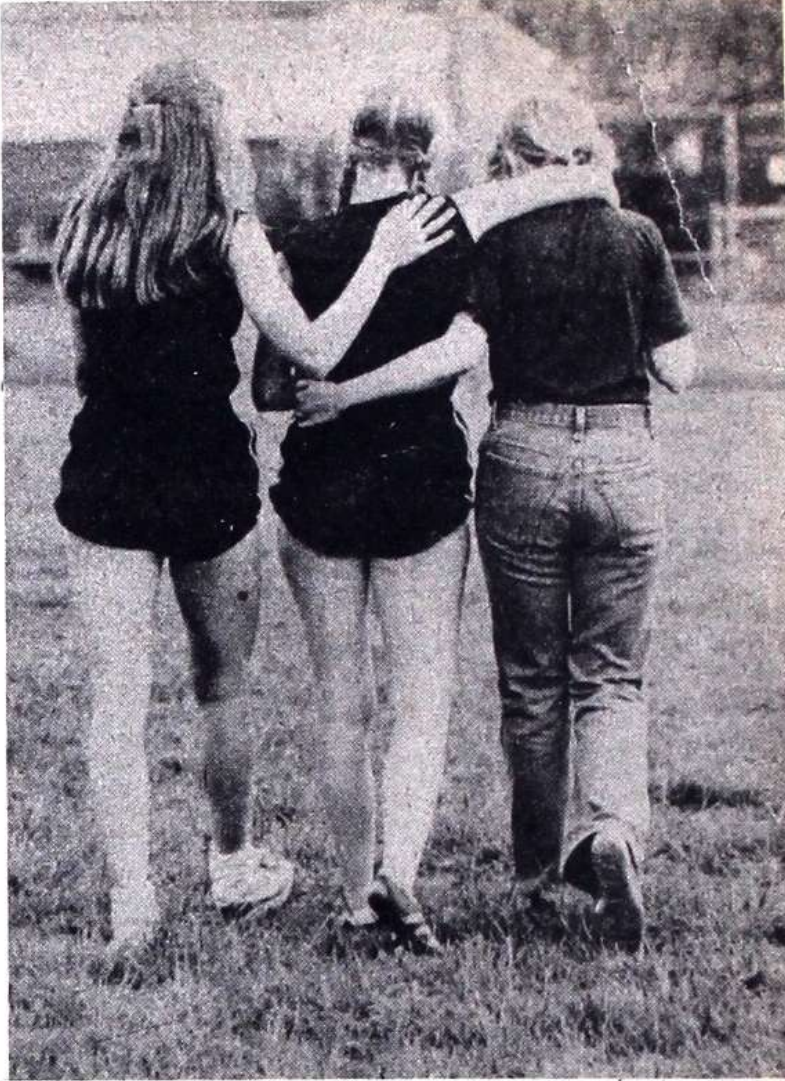

Livonia Schoolcraft Community's Bulldog Aquatic Club is hosting the annual State AAU short course Junior Olympic Swim Meet June 3 and 4, 1978.

The meet is sponsored by Sears, Roebuck and Company, and is being held at the Livonia Schoolcraft College.

In preparation for competition, these youngsters practice ten to eleven months a year, five to six nights per week, swimming approximately three miles nightly.

Some 400 swimmers under 13 years of age from throughout the state will be competing in 58 events. All are hoping to improve their (swim) times and win an award. Some are trying for state records and some for national recognition.

Long-range goals include scholarships and the World Olympics.

Consolation

Running two-miles in over 80 degree temperatures took its toll of athletes last Wednesday during the annual Northwest Suburban Conference girls' track and field championships. Above, two girls help a teammate recover from the gruelling 2-mile event. Glenn held off Franklin to cap a perfect dual meet season with its eighth conference title in a decade.

Belleville bows to Dearborn

Despite outstanding individual performances from Chris Koger, Dexter Hubbard and Brian Brinkerhoff, Belleville thincads were no match for perennial Suburban 8 Conference power, Dearborn, last Thursday.

Coach Dave Medley's Tigers dropped a 109½-59½ decision to their final league rivals of the season and will carry a 3-4 league record into today's (May 31) championships at Plymouth Salem.

The championships will get underway at 3 p.m. with the field events, followed by the preliminaries of the running events at 4 p.m. The finals are set for 7 p.m.

Unbeaten Edsel Ford is favored to take the title for the second consecutive year.

"We should get our share of first places," said Medley, "and, by doing so we could determine which team will finish first."

Koger, who will be traveling to Flint Northwestern this weekend to compete in the finals of the high jump and long jump, had little in the way of competition last week. He leaped 6'7" to come within an inch of his best effort of the year in the high jump.

Chris also soared 21'10½", (shy of his best of 22'1") to pick up the victory in the long jump.

Brinkerhoff edged Dearborn's Jeff Warner by one-tenth of a second in the 330-yard low hurdles as he turned in a 40 seconds effort. In the 220-yard duel, the two again battled it out and Brinkerhoff won by a narrow margin of a tenth of a second. The winning time was posted at 23.3.

Hubbard accounted for the other two individual Belleville victories as he covered the 100-yards in 10.5, then ran a 15 flat for the 120-yard high hurdles.

Belleville's 440-yard relay team made up of Donald Alexander, Brinkerhoff, Keith Walls and Hubbard also turned back the Pioneers.

Rockettes rule Northwest

Gals win 8th track championship

It was closer than Glenn Coach Cheryl Caughey had calculated, but she was satisfied that her girls' track team had returned the Northwest Suburban Conference championship back to the Westland-based high school.

"We beat most of these teams by 30 some points a year ago and were undefeated in league competition, so I really didn't expect a close battle on our hands.

"However, they surprised us," Coach Caughey continued after the Rockets won a narrow 2½ point margin over their nearest rival, Livonia Franklin.

The Westlanders picked up five first places and lost the mile relay through a disqualification. The Rockets compiled 69½ points as compared to Franklin's 67. Redford Thurston finished third with 45½ points, while Garden City East and North Farmington were fourth and fifth with 23 and 3 points, respectively.

Glenn senior Kathy McDougall won one event and helped clinch two of the three relays. Her 11.4 for the 100-yard dash earned her a gold medal in that event and she also teamed with Cheryl Stehle, Sheryl Williams and Jean Burt to produce the winning time for the 880-yard relay, (1:45.5).

Glenn's 440-yard relay team made up of Lori Pfeiffer, Williams, Burt and McDougall also won the league championship thanks to a 50.6 run. Miss Burt posted the fastest 220-yard time of 26.3 to strike gold in that event while Miss Williams' leap of 17 feet, 7 3-4 inches not only won the long jump but it also set a league and school record.

It was the eighth time that the Rockets walked off the conference field with the league championship and Coach Caughey pointed out, "it's getting tougher with each year. "I feel that the others are catching up, but our girls are working hard and should be commended."

Fair exchange

Getting set for the handoff from teammates Sheryl Williams is Jean Burt who helped John Glenn clinch the 880 and the 440 yard relays during the 1978 Northwest Suburban Conference championship held last Wednesday at Livonia Franklin. Glenn retained the title by a narrow margin over the host who was shy 2½ points. It was the closest any Northwest Suburban team has come from snatching the title away from the Westlanders who have dominated the conference scene for the past eight of the last 10 years. One of the reasons why the final results were so close was that Glenn and Franklin were both disqualified for infractions during the final event, the mile relay. The Rockettes had won the race, but the officials ruled that the final runner had not held on to the baton after she had crossed the finish line, according to Coach Cheryl Caughey.

Franklin's Jane Horie hit the ribbon after a 5:43.8 run in the mile to win a gold medal during the northwest Suburban Conference track & field championships. Miss Horie had an easy time of it.

Cherry Hill '9' finishes 3rd in Tri-River League

That adage about trying again if you don't succeed won't mean a thing if Cherry Hill's ball club can't stop South Lyon.

S. Lyon is blocking the Spartans, path to the Class B district playoffs and the two were to meet last night to determine which would advance.

If Cherry Hill succeeds in beating the hosts, it will take on the winner of the Clarenceville and Riverside game in on Saturday at a yet-to-be announced diamond.

Meanwhile, Cherry Hill surprised out of the conference rival, Livonia Franklin 10-4 as Tim Hoffer picked up the victory in relieve. Hoffer took over from Mike Doyle who started and worked 2 2-3 innings then complained of a sore arm.

Darryl Watkins took the loss and went to the showers in the top of the sixth when the Spartans erupted for five runs on a leadoff single by Don Boren, a sacrifice by Larry Baker who was also safe at first and a bunt that was bobbled off of Brian Hewitt's bat which loaded the bases.

Jerome Potvin then slashed a two-run double, giving the Spartans a 5-3 lead. Hoffer's grounder produced the inning's third run and that brought Rick Searcy to the plate and he got a whole of a fastball and sent it over the leftfielder's head for a two-run homer, his first HR of the season.

Searcy wound up with three hits in four trips to the plate and also accounted for four runs batted in. Buck and Potvin split four hits and Ron Sosnowski was a perfect two for two.

Watkins picked up two hits and teammate Doug White accounted for two singles in three appearances at the plate.

Meanwhile, Cherry Hill fattened its Tri-River Conference record to 8-5 at the expense of Southgate. The Spartans, behind junior lefthander Potvin's two-hitter shut out the Sabers 10-0.

In his finest performance of the season, Potvin chalked up 13 strikeouts and didn't give up a base on balls for his third win in four starts.

The Spartans leaped on loser Brian Beshinski for four runs in the opening inning after two were out. Doyle and Sosnowski walked and Hoffer singled to load the bases. Jeff Bilek then came through with a run-scoring single, Hewitt walked, forcing in the second run, a second walk and a passed ball accounted for the other two runs.

For all purposes the Spartans put the game out of reach in the second inning when they tallied three times on a walk to Buck, who stole second and scored on Searcy's single. Searcy proceeded to steal second and advanced to third on a grounder. He scored with Sosnowski's single and Hoffer's base hit chased home the final run.

Sosnowski went two for three and Hoffer had a perfect two for two. Bilek also had two hits in three trips.

Taylor Kennedy, which shares the conference lead with Garden City West, ripped the Spartans 10-1 as Searcy lasted 2 1-3 innings and the defense failed to support him. The Spartans committed a grand total of 10 bobbles during the game, seven of those in the first two frames.

Cherry Hill managed to survive a 5-run Crestwood seventh inning to win a narrow 8-7 league game earlier in the week.

Buck went the distance, fanned nine and walked four in an eight-hit pitching performance. Sosnowski, Hoffer and Searcy each had two hits as the Spartans picked up single runs in the first and second innings and three runs in the third and sixth.

of events. Beresgasy claimed both the low (41.0) and the high (16.0) hurdles, while Zimmerman's 10:31.0 was the best time for the 2-mile run. He ran a 4:43 in winning the one mile.

Wilkerson's lone loss this season was to a speedy Ypsilanti contingent, which had the aid and services of a veteran Romulus athlete.

"I'm really pleased at what we were able to accomplish this year," said Wilkerson who finished his fourth season as head coach. "And one of the big reasons for our success was the time and effort put in by assistant coach Larry Thomas who I sincerely feels is one of the most dedicated coaches in our area."

Nobody has lower new car Auto Loan Rates! (SAVE UP TO $300)

That's right. According to a recent survey, nobody has lower new car auto loan rates than Wyandotte Savings Bank. And that means you can save up to $300 by financing your new car at WSB. Just look at the chart:

	Wyandotte Savings Bank	Bank A	Bank B	Bank C
Amount Financed	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Total Payments	5,749.92	6,067.44	6,050.16	5,975.28
ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE	9.31	13.03	12.83	11.96
36 monthly payments of	159.72	168.54	168.06	165.98
WSB saves you		317.52	300.24	225.36

Down payments vary among banks. WSB only requires a 25% down payment for the above rate.

For your low-cost auto loan, ask your dealer for WSB financing or stop at any office of Wyandotte Savings Bank. Even if you want an auto loan with less than 25% down, we'll still save you money. You can Bank On Us.®

Veni, vidi, vici Frusti

Franklin's Phil Frusti thrusts the throttle in full speed as he anchors the Patriots' 880-yard relay team to an easy victory last Wednesday at the Northwest Suburban Conference championships. The Livonians chalked up eight first places en route to their second consecutive and fifth title in 10 years. North Farmington and Westland John Glenn wound up in a "dead heat" for second place as North finished ahead of Glenn at the league meet after Glenn beat North during the regular season.

Flat Rock Speedway is off to fast start

An excellent opening night crowd at Flat Rock Speedway was treated to exciting racing as Ed Cooper of Clark Lake picked up the victory in the 30 lap ARCA Late Model feature.

Ed's victory wasn't an easy one, though. Polesitter Bill Wargo of St. Clair Shores was overtaken by Joy Fair of Pontiac on lap 3, with Cooper and Jr. Hanley of Halifax, Nova Scotia right on his heels.

The trio ran nose to tail for almost 20 laps. Lap 26 saw Fair drop out, with Cooper inheriting the lead for good, but with Hanley glued to his bumper for second.

Dick Fraser was a close third. Hanley led the Late Models in qualifying with a 12:57. Heat wins went to Harry Pingston of Detroit, and Ted Graves of Dearborn Heights. Barker claimed the pursuit.

The Figure 8 feature thrilled the crowd with its crashes at the intersection. Bob Studt of Dearborn Heights came through it all for the victory. Jerry Middleton was second, and John Briggs of Ypsilanti was third. Contact was heavy through-out the feature event.

Ed Briggs of Belleville set fast time with a 14:58. Studt was the dash winner, and heat wins went to chuck Hutchinson, Bob Webb and Al Grinde. Pursuit winner was chuck Hutchinson.

Rick Bundon of Detroit captured the feature win in the Street Stocks. Johnny Hi was second while Floyd LaLonde was third.

Racing continues at Flat Rock Speedway next Saturday night with time trials at 6:30 and racing at 8 p.m.

Flat Rock Speedway is located one mile south of Flat Rock on Telegraph Road (U.S.24).

Glenn's versatile Kathy McDougall breaks the ribbon as she completes her leg of the 880-yard relay. McDougall anchored her team to a 1:45.5 performance which provided the Rockets one of five gold medals. She also won the 100-yard dash in 11.4.

So many people didn't realize the job that Harry was doing for the community. And so many individuals were too concerned about their own little programs and their own children instead of the entire program that Harry strived to maintain.

But, Harry moved forward to get the job done for all the young women and men athletes at Belleville.

Many school systems have assistant athletic directors or faculty managers to help their A. D. but Harry, by himself, had to administer athletics at both junior high schools, the high school, plus all the little problems the swim club, Cougar football and summer baseball provided.

I have heard from some local residents that the Athletic Director job was not an important one and could be handled by a few coaches. How ridiculous! Sure the system will replace Harry Hidenfelter, but no one could put the time, effort and know how into athletics that Harry did year after year.

Harry will always be my Athletic Director because there will never be another like him. I can't put into words the respect and love that I have for Mr. Hidenfelter.

Not only was he my Athletic Director, but also my friend and father figure. We have all lost a dear friend—the community, the athletes, the coaches, the faculty, the administration, the student body and you sportswriters.

My first response was that when we lost Harry we lost athletics. But Harry wouldn't want it that way. We coaches at Belleville have another obstacle to overcome now that Harry is no longer with us. All I'll have to do is walk by his office with the bright orange door and I'll be ready to tackle our problems for another season.

That is the kind of impression Harry Hidenfelter has left with me. When I think of athletics at Belleville—I think of Harry. Thanks Harry for passing my way.

Sincerely,
Sam Vicchy

Ward, named winner of WMU scholarship

Defensive back Doug Ward has been named as the 1978 recipient of a scholarship presented on behalf of Western Michigan University's 1966 football team which shared the Mid-American Conference championship.

The scholarship winner is picked by the Bronco coaching staff. It is given to an athlete who demonstrates "leadership and improvement on the football field" and was instituted last year. Defensive back Van Dickerson was the initial recipient.

Ward, a senior from Plymouth (Salem), has earned two letters as a second-unit performer and key member of the special teams. In 1977, he took part in 26 tackles and was also credited with a sack, intercepted pass and fumble recovery.

"Doug is one of the unsung heroes on our team," praised Coach Elliot Uzelac. "He came here as a walk-on athlete and has since earned a full scholarship. Doug is a great special team player and his presence has helped make starting cornerback George Bullock into a better performer."

Can MERIT taste hold its own against leading high tar brands?

Does MERIT satisfy smokers over a long period—or are MERIT smokers slipping back to old high tar favorites?

Read the bottom-line results of new research conducted with smokers like yourself.

Research Confirms Breakthrough

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

And in detailed interviews conducted among current MERIT smokers?

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative For High Tar Smokers

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy.

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is what it claims to be: The first major alternative to high tar smoking.

"for happily everaftering"

Once upon a time you planned out your life together. You picked out your dream home, looked at all the furniture catalogs, argued over the number of children you would have, and life was great.

Then something went wrong. You were busy making ends meet. The kids came quicker than you had planned, the cost of living went out of sight, and you put away your dreams with your wedding dress.

Your dreams can still come true!!!
It's never too late to realize your heart's desire. Come to EARL KEIM and see what we can offer you.

BUYING A HOME MAKES THINGS HAPPEN, TOO.

There's the satisfaction of living in a place that belongs to you...

...cash savings from the tax deductions you're taking now, and equity you're building for later...

So home ownership is more than an American dream. It's a practical, positive, American way of life. Talk to a REALTOR® about buying a home. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, trained to help you decide where to buy, what to buy, and how much you can really afford to spend.

All over America, enterprising people are making home ownership happen. To be one of them, call a REALTOR® today.

Meet A Real Estate Headliner.

Say hello to one of the top CENTURY 21 salespeople in your community. Tops in professionalism, knowledge and practical experience. Tops in knowing how to show a house and how to close a sale. Thanks to salespeople like this, CENTURY 21 leads the real estate world in both listings and sales.

1/2 ACRE - $26,900

This very presentable aluminum ranch is located on paved road and might be the perfect low priced home for the family who needs 3 bedrooms and reasonable payments. Schools are among the very best. This is a new listing. Call now.

WESTLAND - $1,600 Dn.

We have just listed this super sharp aluminum and stone ranch with FAMILY ROOM and 2 1/2 CAR GARAGE. Only $31,500. Lovely carpeting, gas h.t., fenced. A home that sparkles in and out. This just might be the home you have been searching for.

REC ROOM - $1,500 Dn.

Just listed the other day. This vacant 3 bedroom ranch with FINISHED BASEMENT is priced at only $29,900. The taxes are low and so are the payments. Good schools also. NOW VACANT and that means that possession can be on the quick side.

ROMULUS - 1 ACRE

Mother nature would be pleased with this newly decorated 3 bedroom colonial, basement, 2 1/2 car garage, dining room, PLUS SUN ROOM (4th bedroom?). On paved road near I-94. Asking $35,500 and we can make deal with $3,500 down.

Don't Postpone a Home of Your Own.

Prices are going up, real estate taxes are going up, energy costs are going up. Some people think that this is a bad time to buy homes.

Those people are wrong. Because prices, taxes and energy costs are going up, this is a good time to buy.

AGAIN, PLEASE?

We are again running low on listings. Last year was one of our best years and we want to thank each and every one of you who have given us the opportunity to serve you. Now please tell your friends and neighbors so we may stock our shelves and help others by selling their property. And remember - Our time is your time... anytime.
